NAZI DRIVE BEGINS TO SLOW UP

Hull Calls for Speedy Arming of Ships

SECRETARY OF STATE TALKS AT HEARING

Testifies Before Committee Holding Secret Session on Neutrality Bill.

HITS NAZI SEA WAR

Says Germans 'Put To Shame Most Ruthless Pirates of Other Days.'

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Cordell Hull, charging Germany with complete breach of faith in sea warfare, urged the house foreign affairs committee today to approve speedily legislation to permit arming of American merchant vessels.

Hull was the first witness heard by the committee as it opened hearings on the Bloom-Connally bill to repeal section 6 of the neutrality act which prohibits arming of American merchants ships. The bill also give congressional sanction to placing armaments on such vessels.

Hull said he felt it most vital to the national interest that section 2 of the neutrality act—barring American merchant ships from belligerent areas—be modified or repealed outright. But he did not ask the committee to include such a provision in the pending bill. Administration strategy is understood to call for adding such a provision when the bill goes to the senate.

Hull read a prepared statement at an open session of the hearings. But the committee planned to go into secret session to question him at greater length after he finished reading the prepared statement.

"A gigantic military machine has been thrown against peaceful people, both on land and on the sea, in a manner unprecedented in history."

He charged that Germany's use

Death Ends Career Of 'President-Maker'

Harry L. Daugherty Dies Peacefully at Home in Columbus

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — The death of Harry Micajah Daugherty, former United States attorney general and the man who started Warren G Harding on the campaign that took him into the White House, removed a notable name from Ohio politics today.

Daugherty died peacefully at 5:50 a. m Sunday, in his East Broad street apartment not far from the Ohio governor's mansion. At the age of 81, the lawyer-politician who boasted personal acquaintance with five presidents had been living in retirement for years, his body racked with pain and his hearing impaired.

He had been failing steadily for the last year since suffering two heart attacks and pneumonia. Except for a few weeks around last Christmas he had been bed-ridden all that time Congestive heart failure brought his death

His daughter, Mrs Emily B. Rarey, and his brother, May S Daugherty, former Washington Court House banker, were at his bedside when he died in his sleep

Daugherty's career had no parallel in Ohio political history. He was a practical politician of the old school, a life-long Republican, a standpatter, a corporation lawyer. He "made" a president; yet his efforts to advance his own political career along the ballot box route met almost complete failure.

REPORT 40,000 BRITISH LAND AT ARCHANGEL

Stockholm Says Attacking Force Second To Arrive at White Sea Ports.

WILL AID RUSSIANS

Hint Army To Be Rushed To Moscow To Relieve Pressure on Reds.

(By International News Service)

STOCKHOLM—The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet today reported from Helsinki, Finland, that a British expeditionary force of 40,000 men has been landed at Archangel.

Another attacking force of undisclosed strength has been put ashore at an unidentified port on the White sea, it was said.

The dispatch quoted "well-informed circles" in the Finnish capital

(Editor's Note—For the past week since the threat to Moscow by rapidly-advancing German armies has become admittedly grave, there has been a rising clamor in press, parliamentary and public circles in London for a British invasion of the continent to relieve the pressure on the Soviet Union

(British military authorities have taken the attitude that neither men nor supplies are yet amassed in sufficient quantities in the British Isles to permit any new British expeditionary force. Britain failed in two previous assaults on continental soil, having been driven out of France at Dunkirk and out of Norway at Aandalasnes.)

Silent on Canadian Overseas Action

OTTAWA — (UP) — Official silence today met reports that Canadian overseas forces were about to go into action and a military spokesman said there was no confirmation that Canadians were "included in an expedition to Archangel."

The spokesman's statement was issued at national defense headquarters following reports from Stockholm that a British expedi-

Red Reserves Help to Stem Pace of Nazis

Russians Report Launching of Several Counter-Attacks as Hope Grows That Moscow Can Be Saved; Bryansk Abandoned.

(By Associated Press)

In the face of Germany's claims that her Russian sweep had carried within 100 miles of Moscow on the west and south, Russian dispatches from that blood-bathed front declared today that one German thrust had been slowed down and that the Red army had launched counter attacks at several points.

Authoritative sources in London asserted that the German offensive—now in its 12th day—had lost momentum as compared with the speed of the first two or three days and added that it was quite possible that the German drive might be stopped 70 or 80 miles short of the Russian capital.

The limit of human endurance and the wear and tear on the thousands of tanks and armored cars may intervene to stabilize the Russian-German front with Moscow untouched as the first snows of winter blanket the plains, perhaps smothering Adolf Hitler's hope of a pre-winter victory.

The Russian dispatches said that the German drive had been slowed particularly in the direction of Vyazma which the Germans have reported passed and already in the process of being mopped up. Vyazma is 125 miles west of the Russian capital.

One of the Russian counter-attacks, made possible by presh reinforcements, was said to have recaptured a town near Bryansk, 210 miles southwest of Moscow, in the region of the Germans' drive on Moscow from the south.

Another counter-attack was launched north of Orel and east of Bryansk. Orel was lost to the Germans a week ago.

Despite the Russian resistance, a dispatch to the Moscow newspaper Pravda acknowledged that the Germans still were moving on Moscow and the only question was whether the drive could be robbed of its momentum short of the goal.

Reinforcements were streaming steadily into the Russian front, it was said — fresh, well-equipped regulars who already had been under German fire but who had been rested for their new test. German reinforcements maintaining a numerical superiority for the invaders, however, also were reported.

The dispatches to Moscow pictured the morale of the Russians as high. All wore warm winter uniforms with long gray great-

INDIA HURRIES WAR DEFENSES

Richest of Military Prizes Prepares Feverishly To Meet Hitler Threat.

(Editor's Note: The Nazi menace to India, and India's preparation to meet the German threat, are graphically set forth in the following dispatch from Kenneth Downs, ace International News Service correspondent.)

By KENNETH DOWNS

NEW DELHI, India — (INS) — India—Richest prize to tempt an invader and hence victim of conquests since the dawn of time—is preparing feverishly today to withstand the armored hordes of Chancellor Hitler the fiercest invader of modern history.

At the outbreak of the war in 1939, the world did not dream India in two years could be under the direct menace of the Nazi war machine.

But that menace became real from the morning of June 22, when the German juggernaut began rolling into Russia

That menace became acute with the news of the last few days, for there seems little question that if Germany conquers southern Russia, she will waste no time in springing at this rich treasure house which is contributing so largely to the British war effort.

That is why for many months

Defense Program Hit By Disastrous Blaze In East

Gas Masks, Balloons and Crude Rubber Destroyed In $13,000,000 Fire at Firestone Plant.

(By United Press)

FALL RIVER, Mass —A division of the national defense program was dealt a crippling blow today as result of a $13,000,000 fire that roared through the Firestone Rubber and Latex Products company plant for 24 hours, destroying gas masks, barrage balloons, machinery and 120,000 tons of crude rubber.

Twenty-five FBI agents were systematically checking all employes and poking through still-smouldering rubble of seven demolished buildings in an effort to determine if the blaze resulted from sabotage

Described as the most disastrous fire in Fall River history, it was fought by 700 firemen from 75 communities after it was discovered on the third floor of one of the buildings late Saturday night.

During the battle to halt the flames, 11 firemen were hospitalized and more than a score were treated for burns, smoke inhalation and other injuries.

Roger S. Firestone, president of the company and son of the late Harvey Firestone, said that from 2,000 to 3,200 employes had been made idle by the blaze.

Firestone said more than $3,000,000 worth of machinery was lost as well as a building described as one of the largest rubber storehouses. This building had been filled with crude rubber which ships and freight cars have brought here for more than a year.

Flames spread to the Fyans Textile Machinery Shop plant, a junk yard and the United Wholesale Supply company building and threatened to reach a tenement house section.

LIES HELPLESS FOR 16 HOURS

Mansfielder Falls Off Railroad Bridge, Breaks Hip; Cries Finally Bring Help.

Found 16 hours after he had fallen about 15 feet from a railroad bridge at the rear of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber works, a 60-year-old man was in General hospital today suffering a fractured right hip and cuts and bruises.

Employes at the rubber plant heard faint cries for help yesterday at 9:12 a. m. while at work and upon investigation found James Evans, 65, 237 West Third street, lying beneath the Erie railroad bridge alongside of Rocky Fork creek, unable to move.

Evans told them he had returned to the city from G. B. U. park by bus along with other Westinghouse employes who had been holding a picnic at the park Saturday. Shortly before 5 p. m. after leaving the bus, Evans decided to walk along the tracks by the tire plant, where he formerly worked, before going home. While crossing the bridge, he lost his balance and fell to the ground.

Evans said he was unable to

12 Killed When Bomber Crashes In East Indies

BATAVIA, N. E. I. — (UP) — Twelve persons, including Lieut. Gen. G J Berenschot, commander-in-chief of The Netherlands East Indies army, were killed today when an American-built Lockheed plane crashed into a row of native houses near the Batavia airport.

The dead included four others besides Gen. Berenschot aboard the plant and seven natives, who were trapped when the plane crashed in flames into the houses.

The accident occurred, it was reported, when the plane's left engine stalled during the takeoff

(The Dutch news agency Aneta reported that the plane was on its way back to Bangkok, Thailand.)

IGNORES RULING

State To Stand By Guns on Wheat Penalties.

The dispute between state and federal officials over the AAA wheat quotas and penalties for farms at public institutions continued today as the Ohio attorney general's office announced it would hold to its original decision that the crop restrictions do not apply to such farms.

The state's ruling, affecting the Mansfield reformatory and county home farms, was disputed Saturday by U. S. Solicitor General Martin G. White who said the public institutions must pay the penalties on excess wheat.

Dale Dunifon, assistant Ohio attorney general, said the state would maintain its position until the courts hold otherwise.

STRUCK BY CAR, ANKLES BROKEN

Ashland Woman Hit at Corner As Light Changes.

ASHLAND—Mrs. G. A Karper, 74, of 310 Cottage street, here, is in Samaritan hospital today with two broken ankles suffered when she was struck by an automobile Saturday night at Main and Center streets.

Mrs. Karper and her husband were crossing the street when the traffic light changed, police reports said

Russell Rafield of 118 West Fourth street, attempting to pass a halted westbound auto, struck Mrs. Karper, the report said Rafield was not held by police.

FOUR INJURED

Hurt When Trains Collide Near Chillicothe.

CHILLICOTHE—(AP)—The "National Limited," streamlined passenger train of the Baltimore & Ohio, slid into the locomotive of a freight train at a siding 24 miles east of here in Jackson county early today.

At least four persons were injured, none seriously. The brakes of the streamliner's Diesel locomotive were locked as the crash occurred.

The following were brought to hospitals here.

John Phifer, 47, of Miami, Okla., representative of the federal Indian service; Edward Lowery, 35, Louisville, Ky., a dining car waiter; Gilbert Howard, New York, a waiter, bruises and badly shaken, and C. A. Donnels of Chillicothe, conductor on the limited.

The train, en route from New York to Cincinnati, was not believed to have been damaged extensively. The engine was reported partially derailed, while all cars remained on the track.

DIR CASE UP

Judge Huston Hears Evidence In City Worker's Suit.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston will hold a hearing at 1:30 p m on the mandamus action of John Dir, former city employe, asking that City Auditor Paul L Kelley be ordered to pay him $84.50 in wages earned this summer.

Dir, who was retired by Mayor William J. Locke on Jan. 1, along with eight other veteran employes who had passed the age of 70, claims that he is eligible for employment with the city although he is past the legal retirement age.

Kelley withheld Dir's salary for work done this summer upon reappointment by Mayor Locke after City Solicitor M. D. Ward, jr., had ruled Dir was illegally rehired.

Ward maintained that Dir, even though he had withdrawn his retirement fund contribution insteady of accepting a pension, cannot be reappointed, except for a temporary period.

RESIGNS POST

Report Dr. Anderson Gives Up Job at State T. B. Sanitorium.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Dr. Frank C. Anderson, who has been superintendent of the state tuberculosis sanitorium at Mt. Vernon since Aug. 30, 1920, today submitted his resignation, effective Nov. 1.

Dr. Anderson will enter private practice. State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood expressed regret at the resignation and said a successor would be named soon.

ARREST FIVE

Cleveland Police Hold Men When Firearms Found.

CLEVELAND— (INS) —Arrested as they left a testimonial dinner for Elmer E Fehlhaber, secretary of the Cuyahoga county Community party, five Youngstown men, three of them negroes, were held today by Cleveland police for investigation when firearms were found in their possession.

One of the men was carrying an automatic pistol when detectives searched them as they left the dinner and a revolver was found in their automobile.

Fehlhaber recently resigned as organizer for Harry Bridges' CIO-International Longshoremen's union.

All four occupants were killed, the announcement said.

The crash occurred near the town of Kilkealy.

County Quota for November Draft Calls Set at 61

State selective service headquarters today called on Richland county draft boards to send 61 selectees to camps in November, about half this month's quota.

Six white youths are scheduled to leave Mansfield during the period from Nov. 3 to 25, while Board 1 in Mansfield will send one colored selectee about Nov. 15.

The quotas for the month call for 23 selectees from Board 1, 17 from Board 2, and 21 from Board 3.

The state-wide calls are the 30th and 31st since induction of men began last fall. They request a total of 3,512 white youths and 103 colored selectees. The number of Ohioans inducted into the service to Sept. 27 was 44,999, state selective service records show.

Richland county youths will report at the Fort Hayes induction station in Columbus Registrants reporting next month will take only one physical examination instead of two. It will be conducted at Fort Hayes, with all eligible registrants going to Columbus for their physical check-up.

Richland county boards will send approximately 120 selectees to Fort Hayes Oct 27 to fill their quotas for this month.

County Hasn't An Injury, But State Traffic Toll's 13

For the first time in several weeks, Richland county escaped without a serious traffic injury over the week-end, but at least 13 persons lost their lives in Ohio highway accidents.

City and county authorities received reports of a number of minor mishaps in which there was only property damage. Gerald Hopkins, Shelby R. D. 1, told sheriff's deputies early today that his car struck a boy on a bicycle about 7:30 p. m. Sunday on State Route 13 near the airport, but the boy escaped injury.

The state's major week-end traffic mishap claimed the lives of four Hamilton residents, who died when a Pennsylvania freight train crashed into their car near Hamilton.

The victims were Edward Hurley, jr., 18, the driver; Leslie Williams, 24; Lorraine Holcombe, 18, and Mrs. Ray Osborne, 16. Rail traffic was delayed two hours while wreckage of the car was cleared away.

Mrs. R. S. Goodell, 70, was fatally injured at Mt. Vernon when she was struck by a car as she was crossing a street.

Martha Pullins, 17, Milford Center high school senior, was killed at Marysville when the car in which she was a passenger struck a culvert.

Other victims in northern Ohio accidents included Marion Yerick, 31, of Clinton, killed at Akron; Steve Klescz, 45, at Painesville, and Mrs. Albina Chervan, 27, injured Friday by a hit-skip driver.

REPORTED MISSING

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Relatives of Roger E. O'Connor, 37, of Columbus, have been advised by officials of the Matson steamship line that he disappeared from the deck of the S. S. Matsonia Sunday, Oct. 5, two days before the ship arrived at Los Angeles from Honolulu.

Campaign Starts This Week But What Will Issues Be?

Mansfield political leaders will break the ice in the municipal campaign this week with at least four meetings, but party heads and both candidates for mayor were still silent today on campaign issues.

Ralph Hardy, county Republican executive chairman, said the G.O.P. committee will make final campaign arrangements and endorse the slate of candidates for municipal offices at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. today at party headquarters.

Hardy said the endorsements would serve to dispel "rumors that the party is not behind all of its candidates 100 per cent."

Fred M. Bushnell, Democratic candidate for mayor, said he "might mention some issues" at a meeting of the Young Democratic club Tuesday night at headquarters in the Martin Hardware building. He would not comment on the "issues" today, however, saying he preferred to wait until he can speak publicly. All the Democratic candidates will be guests of the club at the Tuesday meeting which is in charge of John Correll.

Mayor William J. Locke, seeking a second term on the Republican ticket, said today he probably would make his first campaign

Sabotage Course For City's Police To Start Within 10 Days

Mansfield police will start taking instructions in civilian defense duties and the investigation and combat of sabotage and espionage within the next ten days, Police Chief Meade K. Bates announced today.

Bates, who returned last night from Washington, D. C, where he attended the annual FBI National Police academy for the past week said that federal authorities had provided a plan for setting up classes for local law enforcement officers to prepare them for wartime emergencies.

Bates, along with 591 other police officers who are graduates of the FBI school, studied a special curriculum prepared by the FBI.

The chief will conduct school sessions in the municipal building in which patrolmen will study guard and patrol work, air raid precaution duties, convoying military troops and mechanized units, protecting restricted or vulnerable points, enforcing blackout and noise requirements, duties in connection with grounded enemy aircraft and barrage balloons, gas decontamination, communication systems and other emergency duties.

The chief said that with this specialized training the Mansfield force could act as a nucleus around which local civilian defense plans may be built.

BURGLARS BUSY

Get $1,000 In Two Week-End Robberies At Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD — (AP) — Safecrackers and burglars had a busy time in Springfield over the week-end, netting between $800 and $900 at one business establishment and $100 at a grocery.

E. E. Conrad, manager of the Conrad Motor Sales Co., said safecrackers knocked the dial from a safe to get more than $800.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — "Sudden" is the word, for SPAB. Cracking down on non-war construction was clearly in the cards. It was the object of a major division of the 1918 war industries board which planned its work along in advance with ample notice of its intentions.

Johnson

The creation of such a unit and the beginning of such an effort has been long suggested by B. M. Baruch and others to our present war industries administration but, through months of indifference, there was no action or even any intimation of action.

Then, suddenly and without warning, the whole civilian building trades industry is given a sentence of economic death. It seems to be becoming a habit. It is just like the oil administration overnight decree to cut 10 per cent on gasoline.

"Arbitrary" is also the word for SPAB. There are few parallels of Sydney Hillman's action in compelling the rejection of a bid for defense housing of $979,000 and acceptance of a bid 44 per cent higher.

Why? So far as is known only because Hillman wanted a contractor who uses AFL labor instead of one (such as this low bidder) who uses CIO labor. Another angle was that AFL objected to this contractor because his houses are, in part, prefabricated on modern mass-production methods.

On this latter quesion the whole world of students of our housing problem has been waiting for the sunrise — the day when modern American methods could be used to produce a decent house at a price low enough for a poor man to pay.

Here it came at last and Hillman slammed the door in its face. To hell with the cost to the government and the prospective poor tenants, presumably or likely to be labor union people themselves.

Hillman was playing some kind of union politics which, a cryptic remark of John Carmody suggests, was in part due to a possibility of widespread strikes by AFL in other parts of the country against the defense housing effort.

Hillman has announced and so has Leon Henderson that Hillman is the boss of labor policy of this government and what he says sticks. Very apparently that is no exaggeration. But who is Hillman? He is the head of one of the most powerful labor unions in this country, from which he even now draws pay and is a leader of one wing of the CIO itself.

That's all right. He is one of the ablest, shrewdest and most intelligent of labor leaders. But the head of such a union and a leading spirit in such a federation of unions has no business in charge of labor policy in the United States.

That job is a seat of judgment. Four conflicting interests are constantly involved—that of government, that of the civilian population, that of labor and that of management. Hillman can't be an impartial judge. He is dealing with himself.

As has frequently been pointed out here and as is becoming more apparent daily the unplanned priorities effort has been botched and bungled and complaints of sufferers throughout the country are rising like a tide.

How long can this kind of confusion, high-handed fumbling, deadly error and smirking hypocrisy go on in this democracy without somebody being called to account by the people through their congress? I don't know, but it is a cinch it can't go on forever.

Ex-Convict Confesses Hold-Up Slaying

PREDICT EARLY SETTLEMENT OF LABOR DISPUTE

U. S., State Mediators Hope To Avert Threatened Strike at Toledo.

(By Associated Press)

Federal and state mediators hoped to settle today a union jurisdictional dispute which threatens to stop production of army tanks by tying up the output of the Spicer Manufacturing company in Toledo, Ohio, which makes 70 per cent of the tank transmissions in this country.

James J. Spillane, federal conciliator, said after more than 10 hours of conferences with union and company representatives at Detroit yesterday that progress had been made and that there were resumed today.

An inter-union dispute brought about the situation. Members of CIO's United Automobile Workers at the Spicer company boycotted material produced by the company's subsidiary in Hillsdale, Mich., which had a contract with AFL's United Automobile Workers.

The result was that Spicer was forced to discontinue production of transmissions Saturday. Earlier in the week it had to stop making half-tractor ordnance vehicles. At Cleveland the White Motor company, which uses Spicer transmissions for combat vehicles, said it also would have to halt production in a few days unless the controversy ends.

Automobile industry shutdowns expected to affect 100,000 workmen were only a few days in the offing as CIO United Automobile Workers remained on strike at the Midland Steel Products company in Cleveland.

The union's membership turned down at a meeting yesterday the proposal of Federal Conciliator James F. Dewey that it accept the company's demand for a $15,000 annual limit on wage increases under job reclassifications sought by the union for 342 of its members. Previously the company and the union had agreed on general wage increases to end the two-week strike.

Dewey's estimate of the 100,000 auto workers who would be laid off by mid-week due to a lack of steel frames supplied by Midland included a prediction that 20,000 Hudson workers would be laid off then 24,000 Buick employes. Army "jeeps" produced by Willys-Overland at Toledo also use Midland frames. Six thousand employes of the Studebaker passenger car department already have been made idle.

Marysville Fugitive Who Fled With Velma West Wants To Pay Debt To Society.

(By Associated Press)

MARYSVILLE — Weary of flight, 25-year-old Florence Sheline who broke from the Marysville reformatory with Velma West and two other women in 1939, has surrendered in Denver, Colo., Supt. Marguerite Reilly of the reformatory said today.

The woman walked into headquarters last night, Capt. O. A. Carter of the Denver police reported, and said:

"I can't stand to live forever as a fugitive and fear that every man woh looks at me is a detective. I want to go back and pay my debt to society and then get a steady job."

All four women who escaped Marysville during a heavy rain storm that June morning two years ago now are in custody. Mrs. West, convicted of the jazz-era slaying of her husband, was caught in Dallas, Tex., several weeks later. Virginia Brawdy and Mary Ellen Richards were captured within three months.

Miss Sheline worked as a waitress in Cincinnati, Houston, Tex., and Tucson, Ariz., before going to Denver a year ago. There she waited table and completed a secretarial course.

Mrs. Reilly said reformatory officials would return the woman as soon as identification was established definitely.

BRICKER TO AIR BUC DISPUTE BEFORE OHIOANS IN NEW YORK

(By Associated Press)

A warm dispute between Gov. John W. Bricker and the federal government over the state bureau of unemployment compensation will get a new airing when the governor addresses the Ohio society in New York tonight.

Bricker announced he would go further into an argument that arose suddenly last week when he accused the U. S. civil service commission of attempting "to smear" the state's handling of jobless insurance, and the commission in turn ordered one of its members to get an explanation from the governor.

Asserting the commission was planning a "political raid," Bricker refused it permission to set up headquarters in the BUC for questioning of employes on whether superiors sought to influence their political views. As an immediate aftermath of the exchange, political observers already see administration of the BUC as a major issue during next year's gubernatorial campaign.

In the meantime, Stephen Young of Cleveland, Democratic representative-at-large, took a sharp rap at a speech by George H. Bender, Republican representative-at-large.

Bender, often a critic of the government's foreign policies, asserted Saturday night that Republicans no longer were "a party in opposition. We have joined hands with the national administration in our common desire to build American strength."

Commenting thereupon, Young said yesterday that "it took two years and nine months, Gallup polls and the Cleveland mayoralty primaries to switch George Bender to support the foreign policies of this administration."

Farm Women to Conduct First Meeting at Bellville.

A series of community meetings for rural women will open with a session at 1 p. m. Tuesday at the Community house, Bellville, Miss Elizabeth Bay, county home demonstration agent, said today.

Another meeting will be held at 1 p. m. Wednesday in the Ganges band hall and the third and last session this week at 1 p. m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Roscoe Hutchison, Plymouth.

Miss Bay will conduct the meetings which will deal with "Household Economies." She said topics which will be discussed will include water softeners, furniture washing, silver polishers, and purifiers for cistern water.

Other meetings will be conducted later this fall and winter in county communities. The meetings are open to all women in the villages and farm neighborhoods where they will be held.

PLAN CLUB FOR RAISING STEERS

County To Organize Boys and Girls In Stock Feeding Unit.

Plans to organize a steer feeding club in Richland county for farm boys and girls from 12 to 20 years old will be outlined at a meeting at 8 p. m. today in the county agent's office in the courthouse.

County Agent George B. Ganyard urged boys and girls interested in joining the club to attend the session with their parents, since the project will be of interest to farm families.

Applications for membership must be submitted to the county agent by Wednesday night. If sufficient applications are received, steers will be bought by a committee of six farm leaders for their club members, Ganyard said.

Admits Miley Women Killed When They Resisted Robbery Attempt.

(By Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Tex. — Kentucky's most puzzling slaying, that of golf star Marion Miley and her mother, appeared solved today with the confession of Tom C. Penney that he participated in the holdup-shooting in the Mileys' Lexington, Ky., apartment September 28.

The 32-year-old ex-convict from Lexington said in a signed statement he and Robert H. Anderson, Louisville night club operator, shot the women in a scuffle when they resisted the robbery attempt.

Penney's statement was given Assistant District Attorney Hendricks Brown yesterday.

It led to immediate arrest of Anderson in Louisville on a murder charged. He denied complicity.

A Lexington newspaper carrier, Homer Cramer, gave police a description and license number of a sedan he saw the night of the slaying.

Detectives arrested Penney Thursday night on a hunch, found the sedan he was driving was one reported stolen from Anderson in Louisville and reported the arrest to Kentucky officials.

Statements made by Tommy Lunsford, a friend of Penney's, and Bud Tomlinson, both 28 and from Lexington, proved another prime factor in breaking the case.

They said Penney had approached them and suggested they participate in the robbery a week before the slaying. Their statements said they refused.

When confronted with all this information, Penney admitted the shootings and related this story, Thompson told reporters.

Penney and Anderson entered the swank country club apartment the night of Sept. 28, turned off all lights, found a closed door on the second floor and heard someone inside snoring.

"Anderson used something to knock the panel out of the door," Penney said in his statement. "Anderson then opened the door and I went into the room with him.

"There was a bunch of screaming and scuffling before I got in and as soon as I got in the room something hit me on the chin. I got knocked down and when I got up and started through the hall someone grabbed me by the neck. I hit the person with the gun in my hand and it went off. Then the shooting started."

After the shooting, Penney said, he and Anderson went into a bedroom and saw a woman, apparently Mrs. Miley, sitting on the side of the bed and asked her about the money. She told them it was in a drawer. They found a paper sack and a cloth sack containing $130.

Printers Seek To Ease Government Demand For Paper

Returning from a two-day session Saturday and Sunday of the Ohio State Typographical union held in Canton, Carl Graham and H. T. Powell, News-Journal linotypers, reported that the conference had petitioned Claude M. Baker of Indianapolis, international president, to contact the federal Office of Production Management urging the OPM to slacken government purchases of paper.

The report of the resolutions committee said the army could not use the quantity of paper ordered for targets in five years and that the printing industry would suffer as a result of the government purchases.

A. A. Blubaugh of Canton, formerly of Mansfield, was elected vice president of the state organization yesterday. Other officers elected were George W. [illegible] of Marion, president, and [illegible] Hiller of Dayton, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bracey, John Benson, P. M. Wragg, Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Graham also attended the meeting from Mansfield. Mrs. Powell represented members of the Mansfield women's auxiliary.

Martins Ferry was selected the location for the organization's April meeting.

ERROR CORRECTED

The report carried in The News-Journal on Sept. 26 stating that the state liquor board had cancelled the beer and wine permit held by Tom Deloff, 238 North Main street, was in error. Deloff surrendered the permit for cancellation voluntarily. The erroneous report said that the permit was cancelled following an investigation by the board of an illegal sale.

NAZI DRIVE ON MOSCOW BEGINS TO LOSE SPEED

coats and fur hats in preparedness for the winter at hand. There was little question that the greatest test of the war was impending.

The Russian counterattacks on the central front were emphasized in the concise fashion of the official Moscow communique which spoke first of continued fighting through last night on the whole front but of "particularly fierce" combat in the Vyazma area.

"In the south there was stubborn fighting against the enemy aggressor," the communique added. "At several points Soviet troops counter-attacked."

This followed by several hours a disclosure that the Russians had given up Bryansk, a key railway junction city.

The Germans spoke optimistically of a third spearhead thrust, toward Moscow from the northwest, which they said had taken the Russians by surprise and pushed them back to about 140 miles from the capital The drive was reported still forging ahead.

Authorized sources declared today that German armored forces and motorized infantry were thrusting forward so fast that they no longer bother to build an eastern wall around the trapped Russians but leave this task to horse-drawn artillery and foot soldiers.

In the south, according to Berlin, the pursuit of Russians who escaped encirclement in the battle of the Sea of Azov brought capture of 11,000 more prisoners and 33 guns while on the northwest—the Leningrad sector—"attempts of the enemy to break out were repelled with very heavy losses to the enemy."

For the German air force, the high command reported an assault last night on "targets of vital military importance at Moscow," overnight raids on airdromes and harbors in eastern and southeastern England, and the sinking of an 8,000-ton merchant ship east of Great Yarmouth.

The Hitler headquarters reported incendiary-explosive raids by "a large number of British bombers" in northwestern, western and southern Germany. Civilian dead and wounded and buildings destroyed or damaged "at various places," were acknowledged.

The Germans claimed 13 British bombers were downed They also said that eight RAF planes were destroyed in the channel region yesterday and five the night before in fighting over Tobruk, British-held strong point in Libya.

The British said today that the Axis siege forces at Tobruk were trying to tighten their lines and Italy said that the renewed British assaults on Italian positions there were driven back by heavy fire

The British, pushing an aerial offensive aimed at helping Russia by crippling Germany, raided Bavaria, the Rhineland and northwest Germany Sunday night. It was the first British raid on Bavaria since late last year. Heavy attacks were made on Bremen and Nuernberg.

The Swiss announced that three persons were killed during the night by bombs from an unidentified aircraft which destroyed a house in the Swiss village of Burwil.

Nazis Report 350,000 Red Prisoners Taken

BERLIN —(UP)— Adolf Hitler's headquarters announced today that the number of Russian prisoners taken on the Bryansk-Vyazma front before Moscow had risen to more than 350,000, while German dispatches reported that a new Nazi spearhead had smashed through Russian lines 140 miles northwest of the Soviet capital.

The number of Soviet prisoners "grows steadily," said a special headquarters announcement.

The advancing Germans, said to be less than 100 miles from Moscow on the west and southwest, were aided by the German air force which incessantly pounded the retreating Red army forces, dispatches from the front said.

RAF Continues Raids on Germany

LONDON — (UP) — Resuming their day and night offensive, British bombing formations, escorted by heavy formations of fighters, sped over the southeast coast today toward occupied France after a night in which nearly 400 long range bombing planes made one of the greatest Royal Air Force raids on Germany.

Four-motored bombing planes, carrying new types of high-destructive bombs, raided targets in Bavaria, the Rhineland and northwestern Germany.

Nuremberg, the Bavarian city which is a Nazi stronghold, and in which the merciless anti-Jewish laws were passed by the Nazi Reichstag was a principal target. It contains many important war industries.

Spike Rumors of Nazi Peace Feelers

BERLIN — (AP) — Removal of British Prime Minister Churchill, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and their collaborators was described by authorized sources today as one of Germany's war aims.

Answering foreign rumors of German peace feelers, these sources said:

"The fuehrer has stated that a clear military decision will be obtained against England."

Elaborated on this statement, the sources added:

"Only after arms have spoken and Churchill and Eden have been removed by the English people themselves will the time have come for peace feelers—but they won't be German feelers, they will be solely and exclusively English."

Reports of impending German armistice offers, the sources said, were launched deliberately by the British to gloss over the certain defeat of their Russian ally and the removal of their last prop on the European continent.

The 'Enemy' Captures Vital New York Defense

Paced by dive bombers and assisted by power boats and parachute troops, a Black Army "attacked" New York harbor defenses and succeeded in capturing Fort Tilden before hastily-mobilized units of the New York Guard drove them off. Top, left, the "foe" comes ashore from assault boats. Top, right, the New York Guard goes into action to repel the invader. Bottom, the Black Army charges under the muzzle of a huge 16-inch coast defense gun after capturing the fort. Before being repelled, the "invaders" had time to turn the big guns and theoretically shell the city.

PHONE WORKERS SEEK PAY HIKE

A. T. & T. Employes In Ohio Threaten Strike.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Employes of the American Telephone and Telegraph company in at least eight Ohio cities today were ready to strike unless pay increases are granted by the firm.

Representatives of employes in Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, Springfield, Cambridge, Chillicothe, Portsmouth and Newark voted for the strike threat yesterday. Negotiations between the company and the union were begun in August, but the workers say the company's proffered raises were only $2 a week.

The employes are members of the Federation of Long Line Telephone Workers.

Speculation on impending operations was intensified, however, by disclosure that defense Minister J. L. Ralston and high staff officers had arrived suddenly in London on what was officially called a "routine" mission.

Make New Demands For Russian Aid

LONDON — (AP) — Urgent and pointed demands for Britain and the United States to help embattled Russia with military action as well as supplies came from sections of the London press today after a call by Lord Beaverbrook for British-American production of 30,000 tanks.

A blunt statement by the tabloid Daily Sketch said that "the sooner Americans are in with the Russians and ourselves, mingling their blood and sweat and tears in a common drain, the sooner the war will be won."

Still another idea was contributed by the Sunday Chronicle in an article suggesting a joint British-American guarantee of Russia's far eastern frontier against Japanese attack to release nearly a half million Red Army troops there.

The Help-Russia-Now campaign was given a boost by L. S. Amery, secretary of state for India, who said in a speech:

"We must take every risk to help Russia x x x . It is up to us and America to find ways and means to overcome all obstacles to give, while there yet is time, the relief Russia so sorely needs."

Lord Beaverbrook, minister of supply and head of the British delegation to the Moscow conference on aid to Russia, said in a Sunday broadcast that Britain and the United States had agreed to supply practically everything the Russians had asked.

He stressed the urgent need for tanks, saying the Russians estimated the Germans had 30,000 tanks for their eastern campaign with 14,000 thrown into the present giant offensive

The supply chieftain did not say how many tanks the Russians requested, but he did say the British and American delegations in Moscow had promised "all that at present we can give."

Beaverbrook admitted that the Red armies today are in "dire peril" but declared their morale unbroken.

$50,000 LOSS

Blaze Hits Oil Plant, Lumber Yard at Lansing, Mich.

LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—A roaring fire exploded more than 60,000 gallons of oil and naphtha in nine storage tanks today and spreading to an adjoining lumber yard, caused total damage tentatively estimated at between $50,000 and $60,000.

The fire started in the Lyons Oil company plant and within a few minutes burning fuel had ignited tanks of the Duncan Lumber company, which surrounds the oil plant on three sides.

Witnesses said a "lake" of burning oil spread the blaze to the lumber piles.

In addition, coal in another yard was set afire and two automobiles parked nearby caught fire and were destroyed.

Two hours after the blaze started firemen apparently had checked its spread

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1941.

Everybody is interested in "learning the facts"—if there are such things anymore.

Hitler seems to be moving farther and farther into Russia—and at this time of year that may be good.

According to latest count the world's population is about two billion—and the Nazis and Japs may soon start thinking that most of the total are Russians and Chinese.

Guard Against Fires and Accidents

WITH fires and accidents in defense plants increasing, and with more frequent derailings and collisions of freight trains, many Americans are inclined to say at once, "Sabotage!" And they may be right in some instances.

These catastrophes, however, may more commonly be caused by speed and carelessness arising from the greater activity in factories and on railroads. The remedy is a stronger effort to prevent them.

If communities are not at once able to increase their regular fire-fighting forces, volunteer organizations can be recruited and trained to help the professional group. Inspection of plants where work is booming should be more frequent and more strict, in order to discover and eliminate at once new fire or accident hazards. Newly-employed workers, concentrating on mastering their immediate duties, must be required to observe all safety rules.

Prevention of damage is vital to the success of the whole defense effort. The F. B. I. will watch out for the would-be saboteurs. It is up to others to watch out for the accidents which may be just as dangerous to national safety.

Approaching the Century Mark

THE ninety-seventh anniversary of the founding of the Young Men's Christian Association, being observed throughout the United States, serves to direct public notice to the effective work that has been carried on for almost a century by this organization dedicated to the physical, mental and spiritual betterment of boys and young men.

While the basic idea of the founders of the Y. M. C. A. was religious, as the name implies, a steadily broadening program of activities carried "Y" work into many fields, without at any time losing sight of the value of religious teaching and guidance but with wise avoidance of bigotry or indication of preference in beliefs.

Public approval of the movement in the United States is evidenced by growth of 1,292 associations with membership approaching a million and a quarter and departmental activities directed by 51,546 volunteer leaders.

Handicapped by inadequate facilities to enlarge the scope of its work to the extent desired, Mansfield's Y. M. C. A. has nevertheless performed a worthwhile service in this community.

On Mansfield's list of "unfinished business" is the temporarily deferred project of providing a new, modern Y. M. C. A. building—which may not be a live topic at the moment, but which should not be forgotten when bequests for worthy purposes are being considered.

Recalling Early-Day Motoring

WHEN Shelbyville, Ill., had its fall festival recently, visitors were particularly delighted by an 1899 automobile and the original book of instructions issued with it. The booklet encouraged new car owners with this calm advice:

"It is no more difficult to learn to operate a Sears car than it is to learn to drive a horse. If you will take time to notice different drivers of cars you will find that some drivers will send their cars along over routes, up and down hills, without very much effort or very much stir, while other drivers will have their engine spouting, puffing, kicking, and even then don't accomplish the same amount of work."

Cars in those days came in crates, and the instruction book told how to put them together, attach the wheels and connect the motor.

Drivers were also told that it was well to "strain the gasoline through a chamois skin." They were advised not to start right out on hills, mud or sand. "You will need practice running the car on good level roads before you attempt such tests."

Times have changed much in the past 40 years and so have cars, highways, gasoline and drivers.

Fixed Thanksgiving Day Preferred

WITH so many other things of greater importance occupying attention the subject of Thanksgiving date seems scarcely worth mentioning.

But observance of the past couple of Thanksgivings has been so messed up by one of President Roosevelt's notions that there's at least a chance of congress doing something about it.

Until the president changed it to a week earlier, the last Thursday in November had been very generally regarded as Thanksgiving day—and everybody was happy about it. Since Mr. Roosevelt made the change, however, there has been the mix-up of some states observing one day and some the other.

The house has now approved a measure intended to permanently establish the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving day—which appears to be sufficiently sensible to merit senate concurrence.

Movable Houses for Migrants

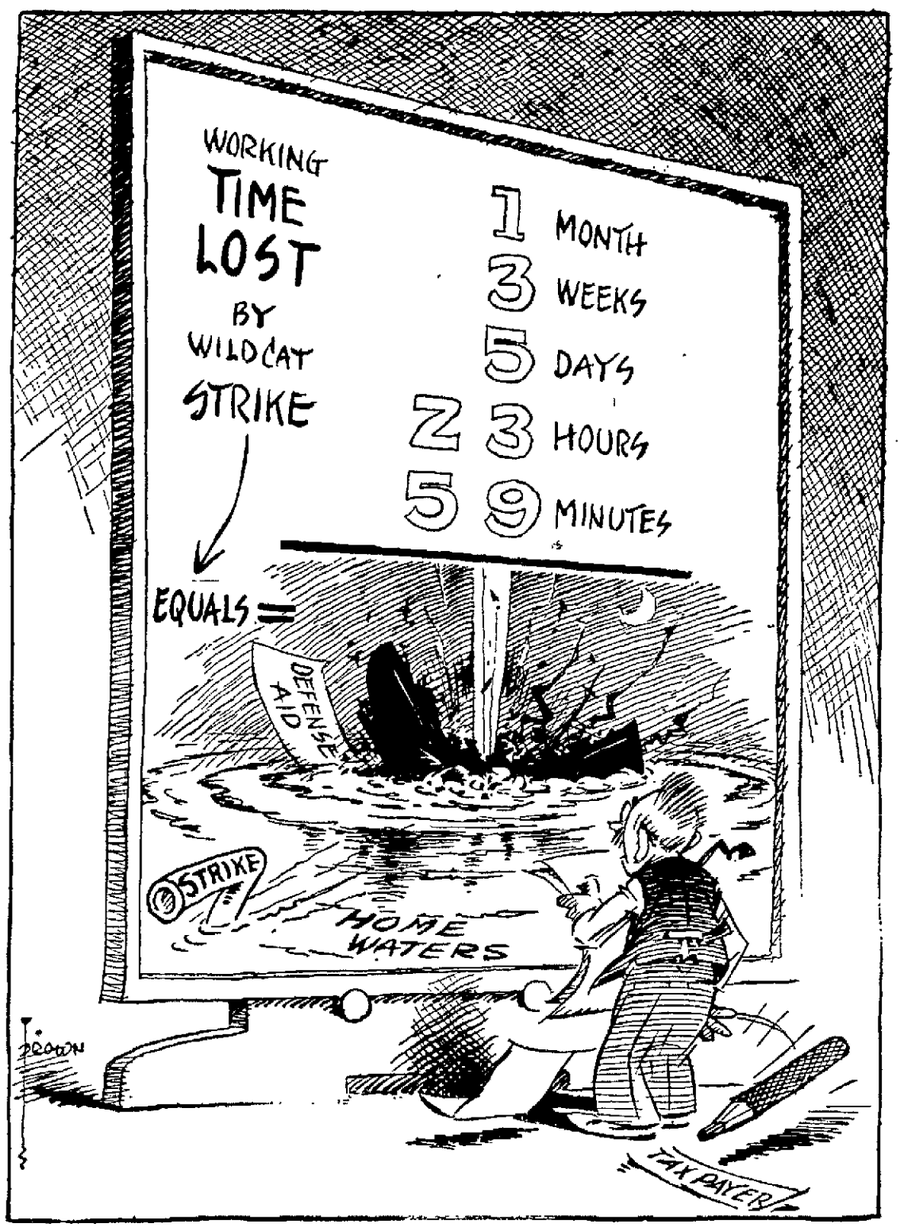
AMERICAN HOUSES in the future may be almost as movable as tents or motor trailers. Business writers speak of a revolution in house-building, started before the beginning of this new era on which we are now entering, but pushed along by current developments.

Mass production will do the trick. The big incentive is the migration of workers as defense operations get under way. Right along with groups of houses built in the usual manner, and intended to remain where they stand, are houses entirely produced in factories, by machinery, and shipped all ready to be set up. Such homes can readily be taken down again or "demounted" for shipment to other sites, as their occupants move from one job to another.

The speed with which these operations may be accomplished is surprising. In a recent demonstration in Maryland, a group of eight builders took down their houses, hauled them 50 miles on trucks and set them up again, all in eight hours.

Another of the common complaints is that there are too few face cards in a bridge deck.

JUST SIMPLE ADDITION



Where Freedom Has Been Lost

THE FREEDOM to think, speak and write, which is enjoyed by Americans, is like the air we breathe—so much taken for granted that we seldom think about it or appreciate it.

Imagine, if you can, a country in which speakers are told what they may and may not say, and where strict rules are laid down as to what newspapers must and must not print.

That is happening right now in Germany and in Nazi dominated countries in Europe.

If you have time to read nothing else on this page take time to read the following instructions issued by the German Government to all newspapers in conquered countries. These are the orders to Norway newspapers:

"The foremost task of the press is to be an instrument of political leadership. It must subsequently publish only such news as is designed to further or not hinder the policy of the German Reich. Important announcements of German policy must not be suppressed by the Norwegian press. German and Italian communiques must be published daily and, whenever possible, on the front page. The greatest care must be taken in publishing any sort of report that it shall not lead to any unrest among the population.

"All reference to former political questions in Norway — the question of the crown, the party system, the trades unions, the government — is forbidden. The only exceptions are such announcements as are made by the German censors. It is categorically forbidden to copy announcements from other papers. Doubtful cases must be referred to the army press officer in Oslo. Equally it is forbidden to copy without permission announcements from foreign-press sources, even and especially from the Danish and Swedish press.

"In publishing German news and news from countries with which Germany is at war preference has to be given to German news. This extends to make-up headlines, size of type, etc. Authorities are reminded that the printing of political letters to the editor are forbidden.

"Weather reports are forbidden as is indirect reference to weather in sporting news. German civilians and military authorities may be referred to only by their German titles, not by any Norwegian version. Reports of economic content are to be avoided if they show the slightest negative tendency.

"No telling points from enemy news sources may be printed; for example, reports of building of new industrial plants or the extension of existing works. Reference to foreign broadcasts other than those controlled by Germany is forbidden. Everything written on foreign politics must coincide with the principles of German foreign policy and must be molded to the German model.

"No attacks on pro-German organizations or German or pro-German individuals may be printed. Editorial staffs cannot be too often prompted to adopt a positive attitude in favor of the pro-German Norwegian administration. Attacks by one paper on another are forbidden.

"The above outline should form the subject of intensive oral instructions to editors. In no circumstances must these instructions be made public, nor must the fact that such instructions have been given to editors become known in any way.

"The control of the local press is to be directed as hitherto by a local commander where there is no branch of the Reich commissariat. All complaints must be reported to the army press officer as quickly as possible. White spaces in papers are forbidden. It must not be apparent, even from a typographical point of view, that an article has been suppressed. (Signed)

"Dr. Ehmer, Captain, Army Press Officer."

Health and Diet

Heredity Influences Length of Life.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"WE ARE all omnibuses in which our ancestors ride, and every now and then one of them sticks his head out and embarrasses us," so averred that eminent Boston physician, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Of course they don't always embarrass us. Sometimes we are mighty proud of them. A newspaper clipping from Oregon tells of a human omnibus with some very valuable passengers.

"Halfway, Ore. — Frank Louson, 77, is put out because the state ruled he was too old to have his driver's license renewed without taking a special test.

"'Why, I'm a young man in our family'," Louson complained.

"He explained that a brother, 82, pilots his own plane in Alaska; his mother did all of her work until she died at 98; his father died at 100, and his immediate grandparents at 103, 109, 119, and 123 years respectively."

Longevity Usually Inherited.

That certainly tends to support my old contention that if you are aiming at longevity, you should begin with your grandparents. People are always asking doctors what kind of diets and what other things they should do to live to an old age.

My observation is that, except in extreme cases of lack of moderation, it makes very little difference what you do after 50. The life force gave you a shove when you were born, and just how much of a shove, determines the days of your years.

Mr. Louson, who wanted his license renewed, probably exaggerated just a teeny little bit on the members of his family who he claimed lived to be 119 and 123.

One hundred years is the upper limit of the span of human life, according to our greatest medical statistician, the late Dr. Raymond Pearl.

Mistake In Birth Record.

The claim of Thomas Parr, who was supposed to be 152 when he died, and Henry Jenkins, who swam a river at the age of 100, seventy-nine years before he died, have been shown to be due to mistakes in the record of their dates of birth.

Several years ago I began collecting books of advice on how to live to a ripe old age. One is by that reputedly wise man, Lord Bacon. They are, however, a melancholy collection.

Most of the authors of works on longevity die young. The only exception was an Italian, Luigi Carnaro; he advised a system of living to promote longevity and he lived to be 90 himself. But he was over 75 when he began to advise on how to live long.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

New Deal Squabbling Threatens Labor Stabilization Agreement

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — A never-ending source of bewilderment about the Roosevelt administration is the passionate zeal with which its master-minds seem to love to pull in opposite directions. One will go one way and another exactly the opposite.

Instances of this peculiar phenomenon are innumerable. Only a few days ago this column revealed a bitter undercover tangle between Secretary Harold Ickes and his cabinet colleague Jesse Jones over a power issue.

But this isn't the only opposite-poles row that is churning the atmosphere behind the scenes.

Another, even more heated and far more important, is raging between OPM Associate Director Sidney Hillman and trust-busting Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold over a vital question of defense labor policy.

One of the key problems of defense production is labor peace. Most of Hillman's time and effort, as OPM labor chief, are devoted to this question. After months of negotiation a labor stabilization agreement was worked out with the powerful AFL building trades unions covering all government building projects.

The accord was a signal achievement. All last winter and spring the army and navy were plagued by costly and obstructive construction strikes. But the stabilization agreement ended that, assuring uninterrupted work on scores of urgently needed camps, buildings, and plants.

But this hard-won peace seems destined to be short-lived — if Thurman Arnold has his way.

Acting on a complaint from Denny Lewis, brother of John L., who installed him as head of the United Construction Workers, Arnold is threatening to smash the stabilization accord on the ground of unfair trade practice.

Certain Chaos.

SHOULD Arnold succeed, chaos would be certain in the huge defense construction program.

The AFL unions are powerfully entrenched and they would fight Denny's makeshift UCW tooth and nail. Strikes would be only a part of the battle.

The UCW was set up several years ago by John Lewis as a "nuisance" union when he was busy warring with the AFL. The UCW has never been self-supporting and has subsisted chiefly on doles from the CIO treasury. The union has had a stormy history.

Getting nowhere in the construction field, Denny, last spring, with the approval of his brother but without the authorization of CIO President Phil Murray, suddenly issued a charter to a Communist-led Minneapolis teamsters union. Several weeks later, twenty leaders of the local were indicted by a federal grand jury.

This episode was followed by an uprising within nine UCW construction locals in New York City against Denny's high-handed tactics. One of the complaints was that he was using their dues to try to organize dormitory and other service employes at Yale college. Since then, Denny has announced plans to move into still other non-construction fields.

This is the union and the kind of labor leadership in behalf of which Thurman Arnold is threatening to bust up Hillman's stabilization accord.

New Dealers certainly do the funniest things!

Note: Last summer Arnold loudly threatened to resign if charges he had brought against several chemical firms with Nazi ties were not prosecuted, only to enter a few weeks ago into a settlement with them. Now he is again repeating the first part of this act in connection with some oil cases which have been pending for nearly a year. He is telling all over Washington that unless Attorney General Biddle lets him go through with the prosecutions, he will quit and blow the lid off the justice department.

Army Moralist.

A SOCIAL worker with a gruff voice, a brusque maner, and a dead cigar in his teeth, has come to town to do something about morale. Mark McClosky used to teach ethics at the Ethical Culture Schools in New York City. Now he is Director of Recreation under Paul McNutt, Federal Security Administrator.

"If the harpies can move themselves to defense towns," says McClosky, "there's no reason why fine girls can't be moved to defense recreation functions. The Army and the U. S. O.—which we supervise are both merely trying to give the average soldier the same choice in spending his leisure time that he has at home—the choice between a honky-tonk and a decent place to dance."

Burly and red-faced, McClosky looks like a truck driver, but he is a Princeton product who can discuss with equal fluency price control, love or philosophy.

His job differs from the war department job, for he takes in the whole population of a defense area. His plans for recreation must include civilians as well as soldiers.

He amazes field workers by the rapidity with which he can move into a town, take in the situation at a glance, and map out a recreation plan which will give an immediate lift to the fellows who are leaning against the corner lamp post.

On the subject of morale in army camps this is McClosky's only comment: "Morale?—there's too damn much talk about it."

Mail From Home.

MAIL from home is an important factor in military morale, and postal authorities are not overlooking it.

Post office department officials are not advertising it, but more than 700 post offices have been put into operation in army camps, naval shore stations, and marine bases by a new division known as the army mail service.

This new system enables mail to be sent direct, instead of being routed through the nearest city or town. This is especially important for parcel post service. Perishable foods sent from home would spoil if delivery were delayed.

The Army Mail Service is conducted by a trained corps of over 2,000 specially selected postal clerks. It is supervised—and here is the reason for the secrecy— by post office inspectors, who see to it that our armed forces not only get A-1 service, but are protected from subversive propaganda.

The inspectors, who ran A. E. F. mail service, also keep a sharp lookout for espionage correspondence. So far only a fraction of this mail has been subjected to scrutiny.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Answering the mail orders:

F. L. R., Savannah, Ga.—My information is that, in spite of talk to the contrary, there is no plan now to reduce the size of the army. In fact, 1,800,000 men is still the goal. The army today has 200,000 fewer men than that. The 200,000 or more over-age soldiers, those with dependents, and "hardship cases," who are to be released by Christmas will be replaced by inductions from the draft lists.

Q. D., Duluth, Minn.—The office of export control is headed by Milo Perkins, formerly director of the agriculture department's surplus marketing division. He is, of course, under Vice President Henry A. Wallace. The export control office, by the way, is considered a keystone in our good neighbor policy and the recent changes which put No. 1 Good Neighbor Wallace in charge, with Perkins as his first lieutenant, are believed to have cleared the way for some real action in trading with South America.

MRS. L. R., Holly, Colo.—It is believed here that the expanded social security recommendations will involve the government's taking over all state unemployment compensation systems and incorporating these in an over-all federal system that would give considerably larger payments on unemployment, old age and survivor insurance.

S. R., Rollo, Mo.—Congressional circles say a new defense highway bill, to take the place of one vetoed this summer, is already in the making and will come up in congress soon. The fight on this measure has been principally whether the funds should be apportioned to the states, on a basis of population, etc., or whether the fund will be administered from Washington and apportioned wherever those in charge deem it necessary.

N. H. B., Santa Fe, N. M.—There ARE units of the Regular army in Iceland, though what units and how many is not available information. It is the national guard and selectees which, by law, cannot be assigned service outside the hemisphere or United States possessions. However, it's almost impossible to get half a dozen persons to agree whether Reykjavik is or isn't in the Western Hemisphere.

J. L., Butte, Mont.—In a recent column, I explained that Thomas E. Dewey, as chairman of the United Service Organizations, had come to Washington "to do something" about breaking the bottleneck in construction of USO service centers. This construction, formerly under direction of the Federal Works agency, now has been turned over to the army. About one-fourth of the 220 recreation center buildings have been approved and the rest should follow immediately. The $11,000,000 fund to which you contributed is for "operating expense" of these centers.

P. R., Jersey City, N. J.—The "oil shortage" is in status quo, with Harold L. Ickes, oil coordinator, still insisting that the shortage exists and senate investigating committee members still insisting it doesn't. Lined up behind both of these fronts are numerous railroad, oil and government officials. Time will tell. If there is NO shortage, the possibility of one should be over by spring. If there is one, it should become really obvious by not later than the first of the year.

A Farmer's Diary

About the Silo

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

BEFORE the time of Christ, the crafty Romans dug cisterns, walled them up and used them, not for water, but for ensilage. Into these holes they dumped green fodder, wheat, oats, barley, perhaps the coarser grasses. Imagine imperial Caesar standing at his royal stable door watching great cart loads of green forage from his fertile fields thrown down into such cells, where Greek slaves stamped the mass to get the moisture out and pack it to make room for larger quantities.

Just how the silage was brought to the surface, history does not tell. But that the plan worked successfully was all important. Just who conceived the idea of building them above ground, or when, I cannot find out. But the principle of chemistry utilized 2,500 years ago is working yet. The silo ranks with the corncrib and the mow as a barnyard institution. Grass silage, such as Caesar used, is popular now on all the larger farms. From June to mid-September will soon be the lengthened season of silo filling.

What goes on inside a silo interests me. Before the corn is cut and shredded, the outer covering protects the inside against bacteria. Within a few hours after the silo is filled, there is a noticeable change. The silo is dark and warm and food for bacteria is there, but air is lacking. Molds require oxygen, yeast needs abundant sugar and not too much acid; rot bacteria need protein and a neutral surrounding. So automatically molds and yeast are out and acid forming bacteria monopolize the silage, until the acid formed checks all growth, even their own.

By the end of a month, the process is complete. Then the ensilage will keep indefinitely. Heat has ceased to be noticeable, and carbonic acid gas has disappeared, to a great extent—although the odor lingers. The sugars of the original corn have been consumed, but the starch is not much affected, and remains unaltered in the finished silage. Lactic and acetic acids are formed in great amount . . . the former the acid of sour milk, the latter of vinegar.

If farmers only knew the chemistry and the history of the foods that they produce, they might find added interest in their job . . . in fact they'd go around with bunged out eyes at the wonders of the common things about them.

'HAMS' SURVEY CHANCES OPEN TO RADIO SPY

Equipment Not Expensive and Easy Purchase Is Emphasized.

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—Two of Philadelphia's most active licensed amateurs have presented statistics to show that a foreign power could establish formidable short-wave set-ups throughout the United States for as little as $40 each.

Their conclusions are based on the condition that sufficient fifth columnists could be mobilized to operate the sets and that they would be able to elude the 24-hour surveillance which the Federal Communications Commission's monitors or "listening posts" now exercise over the air waves.

Ernest Black and Frances Rice collaborated on a set of figures to refute a popular impression that a short-wave station which the Federal Bureau of Investigation seized in a roundup of spy suspects was an elaborate and expensive array of instruments. According to these two persons, anyone with a rudimentary knowledge of radio could set up a station capable of two-way communication with Berlin, Tokyo or Rome with the equipment purchaseable at regular radio supply shops and 10-cent stores.

Black and Miss Rice pointed out that, even with the F.C.S.'s new fleet of "mobile interceptors"—92 trucks and autos equipped to "run down" bootleg stations—it takes some time to trace an unlicensed sender. A foreign government determined to maintain secret communications with an agent in the United States could afford to lose any number of $40 stations.

According to Black, a medium power of as low as 50 watts would suffice for the trans-oceanic sending and receiving sets. He says that amateurs have sent round the world with as little as 10 watts.

Countering the danger of transmitter setups operated by spies and nearly 60,000 American licensed amateurs who, with the commerical short-wave and police stations, cooperate with the F.C.C. in detecting suspicious messages from unauthorized senders.

A "bootleg" transmitter recently was seized in Peoria, Ill., sending code messages supposedly direct to Berlin. He proved to be an "over-brilliant" college student who wanted to see how much a foreign agent could get away with. He was charged with violating the Communications Act.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., started a cleaning process on its building after being convinced that the smoke elimination program works.

Until this year, officials of the company say, they didn't believe it was worthwhile to clean the structure.

REPRESENTATIVES TO ATTEND MUSIC MEET

Members of the Mansfield Music Study Club Will Patricipate in District Convention To Be Held Tuesday in Upper Sandusky.

MANSFIELD will be well represented at the district convention of the senior Federated Music clubs being held tomorrow at the First Lutheran church in Upper Sandusky. Mrs. George Hall, president of the local Mansfield Music Study club and Mrs. E. D. Gibson, state district officer, will be there for the day.

Miss Myrtle Booth, Miss Hester Robinson and Mrs. Thurza Hazeltine, also representatives of the local club, will attend the afternoon and evening meetings. Mrs. Emery Smith, Mrs. Claude Ewing, Mrs. Leola Rogers, Miss Frances Carter, Mrs. Lois Weingartner, Miss Geraldine Harley and Mrs. Dorothy Tingley will take part in the evening program which will be a mass choral group comprised of representatives from each federal club in this district.

As a follow-up to the announced keynote of the first year of her administration, "Mobolize for all-out defense," Mrs. Guy P. Gannett of Portland, Me., president of the National Federation of Music clubs, announced this week a many-sided program endorsed by the board of directors at the recent meeting in Cincinnati which will enlist the patriotic services of nearly a half million Federation members, ranging in age from eight to eighty.

Clubs in both urban and rural communities will study the language, the customs and the music of Central and South American countries that they may contribute to furtherance of understanding as a phase of hemisphere defense. An extension of musical interchange between the United States and Central and South America will be fostered by the committee on international music relations.

Family music groups will familiarize themselves with Beethoven's Fifth or Victory Symphony, and will perform parts of it as an evidence of their faith in the ultimate victory of democratic ideals. Family and community music groups also have been asked to learn not some but all the words of the national anthem and other important patriotic songs.

Civilian morale will not be neglected. Music clubs will sponsor patriotic community sings, folk festivals, "Loyalty" meetings, at which the emphasis, musical and otherwise, will be upon the values inherent in the democratic principle and the "American way of life."

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"I am sure Miss Whitlock won't need me for two hours at least," I told my father, "and I will come here directly after I have finished putting these originals back in the hem of Lillian's robe."

But I wanted, more urgently, to sit down with my copy of her letter, and the contents of the primitive code book which I had just imprinted upon my memory, and see what I could make of it.

But I could not tell my father that. He did not know that I had had made for myself a second copy of both letter and envelope, and I knew that he would resent my action should he find it out.

Father Had Given No Hint.

That he meant to ask my aid in decoding the originals, when I should return to the library, I was sure, but with his odd penchant for keeping his associates in ignorance of his wishes until the time for their help actually had arrived, he would give me no hint of his wish until after my return.

Unwittingly he played into my hand, however, because of his exaggerated masculine opinion of the needlework necessary to the restoration of the letter and envelope to their hiding place.

"Remember, however," he said, "to 'make haste slowly.' You have done yeoman service in finding this letter. You have saved many hours of conjecture, and, what is of even more importance, you have obviated the necessity of questioning Lillian when she shall have awakened.

Can Reassure Lillian.

"We also shall be able to give her some easement by telling her of the letter to Ronald and its interpretation by means of the code. With that knowledge, she, I hope, will bring out this letter of her own accord.

"So, because of this," he went on, "there is no reason for frantic haste in restoring the letter to its hiding place. Take all the time you need to make the job look so natural that Lillian's keen eyes and cunning, preternaturally sharpened by her grief and terror, will not be able to detect the abstraction and restoration of the letter. Then come back here."

"I will do exactly as you say," I told him, and was out of the room with the last word, closing the door after me slowly, and then fairly running down the hall and up the stairs.

I slowed my pace as I neared Lillian's door and opened it softly, finding Miss Whitlock standing by the bed and looking down at her patient. She turned as she heard my entrance, though I tried to make it noiseless, and came out into the living room.

Effect of Shock Uncertain.

"Is she all right?" I asked breathlessly.

"Physically, yes," she said. "What her mental condition will be when she comes out of this remains to be seen."

"You mean—" I said fearfully, leaving the question floating between us.

"I mean the shock of this letter is enough to unhinge any mother's mind," she said. "Oh, I do not mean that she will be completely off balance, when she wakens again to the realization of this. But she will be so terribly distressed and upset that it will take little more to tip the scales to the wrong side, unless you can find some antidote for the poison she has received."

Her clear, keen eyes met mine with a question she would not put into words, and I hastened to answer it."

Hopes to Find Help In Letter.

"There is an antidote," I said. "It is contained in another letter which Marion's fiance received from her. And I am hoping to find the same antidote in this one."

I paused only for the fraction of a second, then shot an abrupt question at her.

"How good a needlewoman are you?" I asked.

With instant comprehension her eyes went to her patient's quilted robe, from the hem of which I had extracted the letter Lillian had so cleverly secreted there.

"Good enough to sew that hem up again so she won't detect it," she answered.

Competent Service Is Needed For a Funeral

A funeral service is a memory investment. Properly planned and conducted, it will result in a cherished memory . . . But since a funeral cannot be rehearsed nor repeated, competent service is needed.

Your assurance of competent funeral service at the Finefrock Funeral Home rests in the knowledge, experience and personal interest this organization brings to its work. Because of these a great many Mansfield families today have cherished memories.

This kind of service costs no more than any other. You are welcome to investigate.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, Oct. 14.

A particularly lively and progressive day is predicted from the astral and mutual configurations. All affairs may be expected to move at high tempo both in a social and business way, with probably an unusual tax on expenditures. Some prudence and thrift should be exercised in handling of funds. Friends and relatives may figure in promoting happiness in the way of social entertainment or emotional gayety. A surprising element may occur in a romantic engagement.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a happy, successful and pleasant year, with much activity in both busines and social life. Elders and friends will contribute to such pleasure and progress, but have an eye to over-extravagance and undue outlay of finances. A surprising romantic adventure is in store.

A child born on this day should have an all round happy and sociable nature with much stability of character as well as unusual artistic talents and graces.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

PROMOTIONAL VALUE

HAVING miscellaneous honors sprinkled through three or four suits will usually give them as great, if not greater, value as if they were bunched in some of the combinations which are rated so highly in most tables. The reason is that each honor has a greater chance to find some other honor or honors of the same suit opposite it in your partner's hand. Especially when your partner has shown definite honor strength by means of an opening bid or an informative double, any honors of any kind in your hand take on greater potential value because of that promotional factor of honors opposite honors.

Declarer	Dummy	Adds
1. A 4 2	K 5 3	1
2. Q 4 2	K 5 3	1 plus
3. A Q 2	K 5 3	1½
4. J 4 2	K 5 3	1 (?)
5. A 4 2	Q 5 3	½
6. K 4 2	Q 5 3	½ plus
7. J 4 2	Q 5 3	1 (?)
8. A K 2	Q 5 3	1
9. A 10 9	J 5 3	¾
10. A Q 2	J 5 3	½
11. K 4 2	J 5 3	½ (?)
12. Q 4 2	J 5 3	1 (?)

The figures in that table show how much trick-taking power is added to the side's cards, if the hand is played by that pair, by the honors which the dummy holds. For instance, the K held by the dummy is worth a whole trick if the declarer has the A. It adds more than a trick to the side's strength, above what the declarer probably counted, if he has the Q. It raises the value from 1½ to 3 tricks if he has the A-Q. And if the declarer even has the J, the side figures to take a trick if the opponents make one lead of the suit at any time.

Notice the Q. Applying the same principle, your partner's A puts the side in position to take two tricks half the time, his K is promoted from half a trick to more than a trick for the side. Even a J in his hand enables your side to have a ranking trick-taker if the suit gets led.

Combination No. 9 above figures to take two tricks unless the opponent who plays after the declarer holds both the K and Q, and hence the J figures to add a trick to that holding three times out of four. With Nos. 11 and 12, your side stands to win a trick because of your J if the opponents ever lead the suit, whereas without the J you had only half a chance with 11 and much less than that with 12.

Would you open the bidding of this deal with the South hand? If so, why? If not, why not? Would it ordinarily pay you, in either rubber or duplicate, to do it?

WILMA JANE RIZER TO WED CORP. SNYDER

Open Church Ceremony to Take Place Saturday Evening Before Altar of First Methodist Church With Rev. Corwin Officiating.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES B. RIZER, 243 Ruth avenue, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Wilma Jane, to Corp. Leslie Theodore Snyder of Camp Shelby, Miss. Mr. Snyder, a former Mansfielder, is the son of Mrs. Grace Snyder of Bellville and Melvin Snyder of Mt. Vernon.

The custom of open church will be observed when the formal ceremony is read Saturday evening, Oct. 18, before the altar of the First Methodist church at 7:30. Miss Rizer has chosen her sister, Miss Margaret Louise, for her maid of honor and Mr. Snyder has asked Richard Lee Darling of Mansfield to serve at best man.

Rev. E. G. Corwin will officiate for the single ring service and nuptial music will be played by Mrs. Elsie Ireland.

Miss Rizer is a graduate of the Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at the W. T. Grant company. Snyder was graduated from Bellville high school and is stationed with the national guard at Camp Shelby, Miss.

A series of nuptial parties will be given for the bride-elect with the first one being held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Richard L. Darling, 441 Lexington avenue, with Miss Margaret Rizer as associate hostess.

Garfield Council Celebrates 50th Anniversary

Members of the Lady Garfield Council, No. 24, Daughters of America, recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of the organization with a party at the Eagle hall. During the afternoon cards were the diversion with seven tables in play. Prizes were given at each table. Mrs. Allie Garrett and Mrs. Martha Reichert were in charge of the afternoon party.

Dinner was served to 55 at 6 p. m. with arrangements made by Mrs. Fanny Nail, Mrs. Hattie Kennedy, Mrs. Elizabeth Croskey and Mrs. Essie Miller. Long tables were attractively decorated with yellow and white flowers and lighted tapers. Individual nosegays were given as favors. Mrs. Hazel Stichler and Miss Mary Beilstine were in charge of the tables.

A brief business session was held in the evening in charge of Mrs. Miller. Evening prizes were won by Mrs. Alice Hunter, Mrs. Ethel Gump and Mrs. Stichler. Capt. Alice Jenkins presented a fancy drill by the degree team at the close of the program. Cards were the diversion of the evening at 11 tables. The next regular meeting on Oct. 24 will be held at the Eagle hall.

Gregor Ziemer To Lecture Here On Thursday

Federation members will have the opportunity to hear Gregor Ziemer, noted lecturer, in a program at the Ohio theater Thursday at 11 a. m. His timely subject will be "2,010 Days of Hitler." Following the lecture members will adjourn to the Women's Club for a luncheon at 1 o'clock. Reservations are to be made to the club house by Wednesday noon.

Ziemer, former correspondent of the Chicago Tribune; New York Herald-Tribune, European editions; and the London Daily Mail, was born in Michigan, educated at U. S. universities, but has spent the last 11 years in Germany. He is familiar with his subject, having visited German schools, churches, labor camps, Hitler Youth hostels, girls' camps and other German organizations. He was in Bohemia before the German army arrived, visited Danzig, fraternized with farmers, soldiers, flyers, journalists and lawyers. He has appeared in Nazi courts and knows concentration camps.

WANTS SHELBY CLASSIFIED AS DEFENSE AREA

JCC Files Request With U. S. Officials Asking For Building Materials.

SHELBY — Papers had been filed in Washington today asking that Shelby be classified as a defense area by the federal government officials.

Pointing out the large amount of national defense work being put out by Shelby factories, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and other civic groups filed letters with the federal government asking for the classification which would allow homes to be built here for defense workers and give the city building material it would not get otherwise.

At least two Shelby firms, Autocall and Ohio Seamless Tube companies, are working directly on national defense work, while most of the factories have subcontracts.

HOLD HORNER RITES TUESDAY

MILLERSBURG—Funeral services for Villers A Horner, 57, well known resident and caretaker of Oak Hill cemetery, Millersburg, who died at his home here Saturday as the result of a cerebral hemorrhage will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Elliott's funeral parlor. Rev. Robert R. Dieterich, pastor of the Methodist church, will officiate. Burial will be in the Millersburg cemetery.

Mr. Horner, caretaker of the cemetery for the past 18 years, was former employe of the Pennsylvania railroad. He was born near Holmesville, Dec. 4, 1883, a son of David and Priscilla Horner.

He leaves his widow, Rosetta, two daughters, Mrs. Howard Wolgamet of Canton, and Joan of the home; his mother, Mrs. John Darr of Holmesville; a brother, Ervin Horner of Millersburg; two grandchildren, Janet and John Wolgamet of Canton.

ATTENDS RITES FOR HER SISTER

GALION — Mrs. Clarence Myers has returned from Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., where she attended funeral services for her sister, Mrs. Josephine Gullick. Services were held Wednesday followed by interment in George Washington Memorial Park at Paramus.

Mrs. Gullick died Oct. 4 at her home after a lingering illness. She was born in Chicago, but had lived in Hasbrouck Heights for the past 16 years, where she took an active part in church and civic affairs.

Mrs. Myers was accompanied to Galion by another sister, Mrs. Eleanor Rauer of Chicago, who will make a short visit here before returning to her home.

URGES SPEEDY SHIP ARMING

Hull Testifies at Secret House Committee Session on Neutrality Bill.

of bombing and submarine warfare would "put to shame the most ruthless pirates of other days.

Hull recalled that in 1936 47 nations, including the United States, Britain, France and Germany, subscribed to a formal document setting forth the rules of submarine warfare and stating clearly that unarmed merchant ships should not be sunk except on warning and after the safety of crews had been assured.

He declared that the German government, however, is and has been sinking American merchant vessels and vessels of other nations with total disregard of this agreement.

Hull said that the neutrality law now "makes it impossible for American vessels to defend themselves on the high seas against lawless forces seeking world domination."

He said that when the neutrality law was enacted, the administration did not contemplate such sinkings of American vessels and hence had not opposed section 6 of the law.

Hull told the committee that while Hitler was engaged in a struggle to conquer the continents of Europe and Africa, he also was "seeking desperately to control the high seas."

At the conclusion of Hull's prepared statement Chairman Sol Bloom closed the hearing.

Denunciation of the hearings came from opponents of the bill after Chairman Bloom announced that they would be limited to two days. The procedure is expected to bar all amendments to the bill which would repeal section six of the neutrality act that prohibits the arming of merchant ships. A final vote in the house is expected by Friday night.

Two Republican members of the committee—Reps. Hamilton Fish (N. Y.) and George Holden Tinkham (Mass.) both vigorous opponents of the president's foreign policy—said they would boycott the hearings. Fish said he wanted to present 30 witnesses.

Four other Republicans—Reps. John M. Vorys of Ohio, Robert B. Chipperfield of Illinois, Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, and Bartel J. Jonkman of Michigan—charged in a letter to Bloom that the "unprecedented gag rule" adopted for the hearings made it impossible for the minority to arrange for opposition testimony.

They said the procedure placed a limitation on free discussion and public questioning of witnesses and amounted to a "triple threat to free speech, free press and freedom of the seas. . . . We are unable to propose any method of giving a fair hearing under these limitations to all those who should be heard."

AUTOS DAMAGED IN COLLISIONS

Six Cars Involved In Series of Minor Accidents at Galion.

GALION—Damage to six automobiles was reported to city police over the end of the week as the result of three minor automobile accidents on city streets.

Cars driven by Ancil Carter of Shelby and Jerome Nagelbush of Cleveland, collided Sunday noon on the public square. Both drivers were going east and as Nagelbush stopped for the red light the Carter car struck the Nagelbush machine in the rear, officers reported. No one was injured, but both cars were damaged.

At 7:30 p. m. Saturday, police said, Bernard Liggett was driving east on West Church street when he collided with a parked car belonging to Hollis M. Crock. Liggett was trying to avoid a collision with an approaching car when he accidentally hit the Crock car. Both machines were damaged.

The third accident, at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, occurred at Grove and South Boston streets. Arthur Sargel was going west on Grove avenue, and Mrs. Dick Taylor was driving north on Boston when the two cars met. No one was injured.

INDIA HURRIES WAR DEFENSES

Richest of Military Prizes Prepares Feverishly To Meet Hitler Threat.

great frontier armies of thousands of workers have been installing modern defenses at the historic invasion passes as well as stepping up mighty war preparations in the interior.

For the past 10 days, traveling over the vast desert spaces of the interior and the wild mountain regions of the frontier, aboard an American-built Douglas transport plane loaned by the RAF, I have witnessed these preparations.

The main defenses naturally are being installed in great defiles which cut through the mountains circling northwest India.

The principal passes are Malakand, where Alexander the Great stormed into India and where British Prime Minister Winston Churchill first distinguished himself as an officer and war correspondent around the turn of the century; Khyber pass, famed in story and film, Kurrum pass near Kohat, Tochi pass near Bunnu and Bolan pass near Quetta.

Bolan pass is by far the most important. That would be the shortest and for geographical reasons the easiest route for the Germans, if they manage to get through the Caucasus to Persia or wheel around through Turkestan to Afghanistan.

British Indian supplies to Russia at present are flowing over this route from Quetta to Persia to Merv.

Urgency of the preparations has been strikingly brought home since the first of the month by air raid precaution maneuvers throughout northern and western India. Every town from the wildest tribal village to the capital of Delhi has been severely blacked out.

These great efforts do not mean hope has been abandoned for Russia, but the British commander-in-chief, Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, has had the reality to look ahead and prepare for the worst if it comes.

Sport Podge by REX HESS

The Monday morning zoology class will now come to order.

Question before the class this morning is: Which is the most ferocious jungle beast, the Tyger or the Wildcat?

What, you thought that question was settled last week when the Mansfield Tyger scrambled the Newark Wildcat 31 to 0?

Well, in a manner of speaking, that little spat of the jungle cats did present some evidence, didn't it?

But the Springfield Wildcat, with four claws missing, scrambled the Dayton Stivers Tiger 9-0.

Yes sir, Springfield took care of one of its oldest traditional rivals, with four Wildcat regulars riding the bench because of injuries. And a substitute fullback, Jack Horton, plowed over for the only touchdown against Stivers.

Friday night at Stadium field the Springfield Wildcat and the Mansfield Tyger get together, and the question now before the class will be decided. It will be a warm-up for the Tyger for his scrap with the Massillon Tiger the following Friday night.

* * *

Coach Jim McDonald of Springfield, Ohio State's hard-hitting fulback of a few years back, was on hand Friday night to see the Mansfield Tyger manhandle the Newark Wildcat.

And Coach Paul Snyder of Mansfield sat in on the festivities Saturday night at Springfield when McDonald's Wildcats scrambled the Dayton Tiger.

What these two guys don't know about each other today shouldn't be whispered outside their respective boudoirs.

This old Podger should find himself in a dither about which team to cheer for Friday night.

But it's been 20 years since I was editor of the Springfield high school Herald, and after that stretch of time I find it doesn't bother my conscience a bit to be pulling for Mansfield.

Why, all I remember of the old alma mammy song is the chorus:

Hail to the high school whose colors we wear,
Hail to her students, so loyal and true.
Her glory and victory we ever will share,
Hail to the high school, the Gold and the Blue.

* * *

Glory and victory? Let 'em get it somewhere else and I'll gladly take my cut. In Mansfield I wouldn't want to share it.

If this be treason, make the most of it.

Freddy Threatens To Call Off Fight

NEW YORK —(INS)— A proposed non-title fight between Welterweight Champion Freddie Cochrane and Ray Robinson, scheduled for Madison Square Garden Oct. 31 today faced cancellation with announcement by Cochrane that unless the recent suspension of his manager by the boxing commission is lifted he will not go through with the match.

Manager Bill Gilzenberg was barred by the commission as an aftermath to Cochrane's recent victory over Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins the charge being that the manager was responsible for Cochrane's coasting in the late rounds after he had Jenkins whipped.

BOEHLER GETS X-RAY

LEXINGTON, Ky. — (AP) — Dr. Jack Rafter, University of Kentucky football team physician, said an x-ray would be made today of the head of Don Boehler of Lorain, who was injured in Saturday's game with Vanderbilt. Boehler, sophomore end, suffered a concussion and possible skull fracture and was reported in fair condition.

Southwest Clubs Take Grid Spot

5 of 7 Conference Teams Unbeaten In Mid Season.

By HERB BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Out of the confusion of an exciting football week-end, the exploits of the Southwestern conference stand out like a beacon on a stormy night.

With three weeks of the campaign now history, five of the seven members of the Southwest conference still remain unbeaten and untied and one of them at least—the Texas Longhorns—belongs at or close to the top of an early national ranking.

* * *

Baylor, Rice, Texas A. and M. and Texas Christian likewise boast perfect records and of these, Rice's Owls have just engineered the biggest upset of the young season, a stunning 10-9 defeat to Tulane's mighty Green Wave.

* * *

This sensational showing by the Texas contingent is in sharp contrast to certain other sections, notably the Pacific Coast conference where not one unbeaten outfit remains.

All told 29 major schools still have perfect records. In addition to the five southwest representatives, they are split this way:

East: Navy, Army, Fordham, Temple, Villanova, Penn, Dartmouth, Columbia, Cornell, Duquesne, and Rutgers.

Western conference: Minnesota Michigan, Northwestern and Ohio State.

Big Six: Nebraska.

Southeastern conference: Vanderbilt. (Georgia and Mississippi State have been tied but not beaten.)

Southern conference: Duke and Clemson.

Independents: Notre Dame, Detroit and Santa Clara.

Rocky Mountain Big Seven: Utah and Colorado State

The list is due for sharp revision this week as a study of the schedule by sections will show.

SOUTHWEST

Texas, which has run up 108 points in trouncing Colorado, Louisiana State and Oklahoma in succession, should have no troubles in its first conference test against Arkansas, beaten 20-7 by Baylor last week.

* * *

Meantime, Baylor invades Philadelphia to face Villanova's Wildcats who barely nipped Florida, 6-0. Rice moves into Baton Rouge to play Louisiana State which showed unexpected strength in outplaying Mississippi State in a scoreless draw.

MIDWEST

Northwestern and Michigan battle at Evanston in the biggest duel of the week Held to a 14-14 score in the first period Northwestern uncovered tremendous scoring power in a 41-14 rout of Wisconsin for its second victory. Michigan made it three in a row in a 40-0 victory over hapless Pitt. The Panthers face more trouble at Minneapolis where they play Minnesota's Gophers who crushed Illinois, 34-6. Ohio State and Purdue, Wisconsin and Iowa are other conference pairings. Indiana, beaten three times in a row, meets another tough foe in Nebraska', Cornhuskers, Big Six champions, who toppled Kansas, 30-0 Illinois plays Drake.

FAR WEST

Stanford's unexpected 10-0 defeat at Oregon State left the conference race wide open. Oregon State gets the week off but the others will be active.

* * *

Washington which outpointed Washington State, 23-13, tackles U. C. L. A., 14-7 victory over Montana. Washington State travels south to meet Southern California, beaten 20-6 by Oregon. Oregon's next foe is California, beaten 13-0 by Santa Clara.

EAST

One perfect record will go by the boards in the clash between powerful Navy and Cornell. Navy had only a workout against Lafayette, 31-2, while Cornell, nipping Harvard, 7-0, earned its second one-touchdown victory. Columbia, paced to a 21-0 triumph over Princeton by Paul Voernall, expects trouble from invading Georgia and Army will need all its luck against gallant Yale, beaten by powerful Penn, 28-13. Dartmouth, facing Harvard, Penn, playing Princeton and Fordham, tackling West Virginia, should be safe for another week. Notre Dame expects no trouble with deemphasized Carnegie Tech, and Temple, 17-7 victor over Georgetown, should hurdle Penn State.

MANSFIELD BOWLERS DEFEAT ASHLAND

A Mansfield kegling team defeated Ashland by 316 pins in a special match yesterday at the Colony alleys. McBride led the winners with a 594 total, rolling 197-215-182.

LOUIS OFFERED BOUT

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Promoters Bob Brickman and Ben Goetz said they would offer heavyweight Champion Joe Louis $25,000 to come to Cleveland for a bout with the winner of the Lem Franklin-Abe Simon fight here next Monday.

Joe Louis Gets Hep To Future Life In Uncle Sam's Army

Hardest part. Fried chicken's good. Natty . . . what?

With the expectation of a call into the army soon, Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis is taking advantage of a boxing exhibition tour of army camps to gain a little insight into what his own life will be like after he gets his summons from Uncle Sam. The pictures above were taken at the Savannah, Ill., ordnance depot, one of the stops on Joe's itinerary. At left, the Brown bomber learns all about the most irritating part of army life—reveille. Lunch of fried chicken, center, with Col. L. P. Crim, post commandant, is right down Joe's alley, and a natty-looking overseas cap gives that jaunty look, right.

Stanford T Breaks Down When Diluted With Water

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Monday morning grid-irony:

Hero of the week-end—Curtis Mecham, sophomore right halfback of the University of Oregon. He threw passes for all three of his team's touchdowns against Southern California, gave a terrific demonstration of punting, intercepted a pass and ran it back 53 yards.

Upset of the week-end—Oregon State's 10-0 victory over Stanford. Rose Bowl champains. It seems Stanford's "T" isn't so good when diluted by rainwater. A muddy field at Convallis, Ore., hampered Frankie Albert, Stanford's All-American quarterback, and he turned out, alas, to be a mere mortal.

Minnesota (and by the way, who is going to stop those babies this season?) uses the Joe Louis technique — knock 'em down with one punch and polish 'em off at your ease. On the first play of the game against Illinois, the Minnesota boys shook Bill Daley loose for 73 yards and a touchdown. After that, the deluge.

Whole new program in the bowl games on Jan. 1. Four of the teams that played in the 1941 bowl games already have been defeated and the road will not be smoother from here on out. The unlucky ones are Tennessee, Boston College, Stanford and Georgetown.

Best one on Saturday's schedule —Northwestern vs. Michigan at Evanston, Ill.

Bissman's Hit Total of 3,104

Three 1,000 Games Held To 3-Pin Limit.

Bissman Birdie Brand bowlers turned on the heat in the N. C. O. traveling league yesterday, turning in a 3,104 total to take all three games from Elyria at Colony alleys.

* * *

It was a consistent kind of heat, too. The three games were kept within a three-pin limit as the Birdies chalked up 1,041-1,040-1,043.

* * *

Winnie Cleckner was the only Bissman kegler to miss the 600 total, and he had two 200 games. Dale Cleckner led the way with 650, Harold LeMunyon had 640, Farrell Hipp 629, and Art Hilborn 618. LeMunyon had high game of 237.

Liederkranz dropped a 1 to 2 decision in the N. C. O. league at Fremont, but Harold Selby turned in high total for the match with 627 on games of 192-229-206.

John Carroll Team Practices Offense

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Coach Tom Conley emphasized offense today as he put his John Carroll gridders through their practice paces and looked back on yesterday's defeat of the Carroll eleven by Xavier university of Cincinnati.

Chet Mutryn, a junior, scored two touchdowns and hurled a touchdown pass as his contribution to Xavier's 25 to 0 defeat of Carroll.

The Men of Conley put up a satisfactory defense and produced a stubborn front to hold the score to 25 points, but they had no drive on the attack and the Musketeers from southern Ohio repeatedly broke up their ground and aerial plays.

COLUMBUS BULLS TAKE PRO TILT FROM CHIEFS

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The Columbus Bulls won their second straight game in the American Professional Football league yesterday, stopping the Milwaukee Chiefs, 14 to 7.

Bob (Twenty Grand) Davis scored both touchdowns for Columbus while the Milwaukee score came on a 67-yard run by Phil Manders.

BOYD IN TRACK WIN

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Cutting nearly a minute off the record set last year by Elmo Green of Phoenix, Bill Boyd of Steubenville won the 100-lap Ohio banked track championship at Sportsman's park in 28 minutes, 38.94 seconds.

JEAN HERRING WINS MATCH OF CHAMPIONS

Jean Herring, women's champion of Westbrook Country club, can now claim the women's golf title of Mansfield for the 1941 season.

She completed her 36-hole, home-and-home match with Patty Oberlander, Possum Run champion, with a 3 and 2 victory at Westbrook yesterday afternoon.

Jean gained a 1 up margin in the first 18-hole match a week ago at Possum Run, and as the scores indicate, the two girls were evenly matched for their test of champions.

Woman Beats Male Shooters

Opal Hassinger Takes Long Range Event.

Opal Hassinger, 482 Davey avenue, outclassed a field of veteran riflemen yesterday in a "any rifle" match which was fired over the 200 yard and 300 yard course.

* * *

Mrs. Hassinger using a special rifle built by her husband, C. A. Hassinger, in 218 caliber chalked up a 369 out of 400 score, getting 284 at 200 yards and 285 at 300. This match is fired on the 200 yard small bore target which has a 4 inch bullseye.

* * *

Her husband, shooting a 220 swift, tied Mrs. Hassinger but was out-ranked at the longer range. Cy scored 197 at 200 yards only missing the 4 inch three times, but at 300 he got into trouble in a switch of rifles and went down to 172.

Earl Clark of Ashland was runner up with a 366, shooting a 22 rim fire target rifle with scope. Which goes to show that the little 22 is not a pop gun

ORANGE STREET FIVE WINS TWO MATCHES

Orange St. Cafe bowlers scored a pair of victories over the week-end, winning at Galion Saturday night by a 2 to 1 margin and at Mt. Vernon yesterday by the same score. Two members of the Orange St. girls' team helped out in the Mt. Vernon match, Donna Schuster rolling a 530 total and Kate Cheney 487.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service) — At least there were two football predictions for the past week-end that came out 100 per cent right. . . . One was issued from Oregon State headquarters to the effect that something awful would happen to the "T" formation bandwagon the first time Stanford ran into a good rain and a good team on the same afternoon. . . . The other was the Southwesterners' forecast that Texas A. and M. would be coming up to its first conference game next Saturday without going through a real test. . . . From a perch on the end of a badly cracked limb, we conclude that the week's fastest tumblers were Tulane, Marquette and Holy Cross. The still-have-its seem to be Duke, Minnesota, Northwestern, Texas, Clemson and Navy. . . . And how about the Chicago Bears for the Rose Bowl?

CONTRIBUTORS' CORNER.

Correspondent Walter W. Foley, Jr., of Jamaica Plain, Mass., seems to have something. . . . After surveying early results from his sector, he wrote as follows: "I'm convinced that our revolutionary forefathers were not only patriots but also prophets when the dumped the 'T' into Boston harbor. I've a suspicion that they not only started a war but also established a precedent."

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE.

Harvard has streamlined its cheer from nine to seven rahs... Apparently they didn't want the yelling to be any stronger than the team. . . . Rudd Davis, crack Louisville bowler, recommends milking cows as training for spilling tenpins He says it develops the grip. . . . The Stillwater (Minn.) prison baseball team is looking for a new catcher as the incumbent's contract is about to run out. . . . George Eastment, track coach at Bishop Loughlin high school (New York) missed his first meet in 14 years Saturday while attending the wedding of one of his old runners. . . . Al Reba, Michigan City (Ind.) featherweight who caused quite a stir in Florida a couple of years ago, is about to start a comeback.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Nixson Denton, Cincinnati Times-Star: "Those southern Ohioans who a few years ago were wont to label Larry MacPhail dumb will be interested to learn that the Brooklyn Dodgers, which owed more than half a million dollars when MacPhail took over, now are free from debt and have money in the bank. Of course, there's one liability. They still have MacPhail along with it."

LAST LAUGH.

When Gus Geiges of Philadelphia went on the field to referee the Scranton-St. Anselm game, a player asked him to hold something and hand over a wrist watch. The next brought a ring and another a medal. When the fourth one came along, Geiges resigned as property custodian. He handed Gus his upper false teeth.

Chicago Bears, N. Y. Giants Unbeaten In Pro Grid Race

By TOM SILER

CHICAGO—(AP)—Football and upsets go together like ham and eggs—except in the National professional league.

The 10-team circuit is rapidly nearing the halfway mark in the title race, but there has not been a single reversal of form in 20 games played. Upsets may yet enliven the scramble, but so far the Chicago Bears and New York Giants have managed to brush aside all opposition with comparative ease.

* * *

The Chicago Cardinals, who whipped the Bears last season, got all steamed up for Sunday's game, but it availed them nothing. The talented Bears mercilessly smashed their municipal rivals in a 53 to 7 victory over 34,668 spectators.

The Giants, undefeated like the Bears, noticed their fourth successive victory at the expense of Philadelphia, 16 to 0. A crowd of 30,482 greeted the Giants on their home debut.

Green Bay's still dangerous club jolted Brooklyn's fading title hopes with a 30 to 7 victory. Detroit, without a victory in three games, finally found the combination for rookie Coach Bill Edwards with a 17 to 7 triumph over Cleveland. The Rams were handicapped by the absence of the injured Parker Hall.

Pittsburgh, the only team in the loop which has lost every start, bowed to Washington, 24 to 20, the Steelers' magnificent rally going for naught.

The standings and schedule:

WESTERN DIVISION
Club	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	O.P.
Chicago Bears	3	0	0	126	45
Green Bay	4	1	0	108	52
Cleveland	2	3	0	62	109
Detroit	2	2	1	38	58
Chicago Cards	0	3	1	40	91
EASTERN DIVISION
Club	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	O.P.
New York	4	0	0	94	20
Washington	2	1	0	37	37
Brooklyn	2	2	0	45	53
Philadelphia	1	3	0	23	71
Pittsburgh	0	4	0	51	88

Sunday's Schedule.

Pittsburgh at New York.
Washington at Philadelphia.
Detroit at Chicago Bears.
Chicago Cardinals at Brooklyn.

Clabaugh Leads Galion To Victory

GALION — An estimated 2,000 football fans saw Galion's powerful Jay-Cees swamp the Marion Monarchs, a lighter colored team, in the second game of the season for the semi-pro team here, Sunday afternoon. The score was 31 to 0.

* * *

Again Henry "Bullet" Clabaugh led Galion scoring by racing 30 yards for the first touchdown and coming back three minutes later in the second period after racing 86 yards with an intercepted pass to score from the 3-yard line. His final touchdown came in the third period from the 1-yard line after Bob Ivey of Marion recovered a bad pass from center on final down, giving Galion possession of the ball at that point.

* * *

Gene Harmon, leading scholastic scorer in the state three years ago, took reverse for 8 yards and touchdown in the second quarter after Delnore Goldsmith had maneuvered Galion 30 yards on two plays on a 20-yard pass to Ernst and an end run for 10 more yards Goldsmith raced 7 yards unmolested in the final quarter to score after Galion had recovered a Marion fumble on their 14.

Dayton Gets Second Crack At Vols

DAYTON—(U.P.)—The university of Dayton football team will return to Knoxville, Tenn., next year for another crack at the Tennessee Vols.

* * *

Flyer Coach Harry Baujan said that Tennessee officials had offered Dayton the Oct. 10 date on the Vols' schedule next year. Baujan said he would sign a contract for the game to be played at Knoxville.

* * *

Dayton lost, 26 to 0, to Tennessee Saturday.

REX BILLIARDS DROP MATCH AT COLUMBUS

All Possum Run members and their friends are invited to the jamboree.

Buckeyes Challenge Purdue

Ohio State Faces First Big Ten Opponent.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Purdue's invasion of Ohio State for Coach Brown's first Big Ten game as coach of the baffling Bucks headlines a 21-game grid menu being dished up for Ohio college fans next week-end.

* * *

The Bucks and Boilermakers have met eight time, Ohio winning the first six by shutouts, dropping the seventh 12 to 0, and taking last year's contest, 17-14 on a disputed placekick. Ohio has scored 134 points to Purdue's 26 in the series.

Some of Massillon high school's recent stalwarts will stack up against each other in the affair, expected to attract more than 60,000 fans. Purdue will present Jim Miller, guard and co-captain, and Fullback "Rocky" Snyder, both of whom played for Brown at Massillon, while Ohio will have among its first stringers End Charley Anderson, Guard Lin Houston and Center Earl Martin, also proteges of the Buck coach while a high school mentor.

While the Bucks are making their Big Ten debut for 1941, the state's other colleges will present an outstanding program. Among the top-notch attractions are Kentucky at Xavier as the pace-setting Musketeers celebrate their homecoming; Marietta's attempt to upset Wittenberg's Ohio conference and state champions in a Friday night game, and Case at Wooster in a clash of undefeated squads.

Xavier took over the state leadership yesterday by trimming John Carroll 25 to 0 for the fourth straight Musketeer conquest, the scoring leadership at 149 points going along with the win. Eight teams suffered their first defeats of the campaign over the week-end, and Wittenberg emerged with the only uncrossed goal line.

The week-end slate:

* * *

Friday night: Wittenberg at Marietta, Oklahoma City at Youngstown.

FIGHTS IN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE — (INS) — Jack "Buddy" Walker, Columbus, O., Negro heavyweight boxer, meets Clarence "Red" Burman in a 12-round bout in Baltimore tonight.

Value of Farm Animals Shows Sharp Increase

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. —(INS)— Increase from 11 to 40 per cent in the value of all farm animals, except mules and horses, have been reported by the Indiana State Tax Board.

Thus an Indiana farmer who owned a sow in 1940 worth $15 now can sell the same sow for $21. These assessment figures fixed by the assessors are supposed to be the actual cash value of the animals, so the business man who thinks a ten per cent increase in the value of his business each year is the acme of success still has a lot to learn.

The upward swing in the values of livestock, officials said, is directly attributable to the national defense program. Horses and mules have decreased in value because there is little need for them in the defense plan.

The Tax Board also reported that during the past year the value of the average farm implement jumped from $128 to $132. This indicates that more new farm implements were purchased during the year.

On the other hand, indications were that farmers were keeping their old tractors, because the average value on one type dropped from $220 to $211.

DEFENSE BOON SEEN AS HOBBY

Texan Turns Pastime Into Profitable Business To Aid Defense.

(By United Press)

ROBSTOWN, Tex.—In his spare time W. D. Doughty, sr., has puttered around with castor beans for the past six years. Now that castor oil, a necessity in the aviation, has been put on the priorities list it appears that Doughty is going to turn his hobby into an aid for the defense program.

Doughty, who raises castor beans in his time off from his work as railroad agent and as chairman of the local selective service board, has developed a sturdy little plant called "Doughty Eleven" which bids to compete with castor plants from other countries.

Doughty Eleven now is six generations old and analysis by several concerns show that Doughty's hybrid plant averages at least 50 per cent oil, as good as beans imported from South America, Cuba and India.

Doughty has worked with castor beans in the face of discouragement from friends. He has kept on relentlessly, believing he could develop or acclimate to South Texas one of the 25 varieties with which he began his experiments.

Reproduction from a few seed is slow. It takes several years to produce a sufficient quantity to plant any acreage and Doughty did not have enough seed to plant any acreage until last year. Then he planted about 10 acres and now has about five tons of seed for replanting.

"Cross breeding and dwarfing castor beans is a slow process and no one man lives long enough to learn much," Doughty said. "However, I am certain I have a bean that will serve as a money crop and can be reproduced here at no great expense and that will yield as great a return as other money crops."

As the government has listed castor oil on the scarcity list, Doughty has enlisted the aid of the defense council and is confident permission will be granted sufficient acreage next year to justify planting castor beans commercially.

The market demand for castor oil has increased greatly in the past year and prices are correspondingly higher. The United States imports great quantities of castor oil every year and there is little probability of over production for many years.

I WANT YOU TO TAKE YOUR MONEY OUT OF HERE RIGHT AWAY AND PUT IT IN THE BANK! ... THOSE OLD NOISES OF THE HOUSE SETTLING AFTER MIDNIGHT, WILL HAVE A DIFFERENT SOUND WITH THAT MUCH CASH IN HERE!
OKAY, I'LL BANK IT! BUT THERE ISN'T A BETTER BURGLAR ALARM IN THE CITY, THAN OUR CREAKY HALL STAIRS!
HM--I KNOW WHAT.... I'LL GO TO THE BANK AND DEPOSIT $300 EVERY DAY!... IT WILL GIVE ME GREAT PLEASURE TO LOOK DOWN MY NOSE AT THE BANK MANAGER WHO USED TO REFUSE ME A $25 LOAN!
YOU CAN DO IT 50 DAYS, JUDGE

DEATH CLAIMS NOTED MAN IN OHIO POLITICS

Harry L. Daugherty Succumbs Peacefully at His Home In Columbus.

president died in 1923. He coached and counseled Harding in politics and saw in his presidential possibilities when he was barely known outside Ohio.

In Daugherty's own words, this was the story of how he swung enough delegate votes to get Harding the Republican nomination in 1920:

"I worked quietly on the Harding nomination for over a year before Harding had any real inkling as to what I was up to. We deliberately kept him in the dark. It is the worst thing in the world to have a man aware of the fact that he is a prospective candidate for the presidency.

"We went out to get delegates, for half of the membership in any Republican convention is bound to be in the next convention. So we looked up all of the delegates at the 1916 convention and got as many of them as possible to agree to support Harding. They were comparatively very few. What we really asked for was pledges that they would make Harding their second or third choice.

"We all knew that both Wood and Lowden would run ahead of Harding at the start, but we felt that these two would fight themselves to a finish on the floor and that out of the melee, if we had enough second and third choice support, we could put Harding across.

"And that is the way it worked out. Coolidge's nomination for vice president was really almost an accident. After the Harding nomination a little group of us met under the stairs leading from the main convention hall to the basement and talked it over. Noise, confusion and din were all about us.

"Will Hays had some friends who wanted him on the ticket with Harding, and he might have had it except for the fact that Harding came from Ohio, and Indiana was too close."

Harding followed Daugherty's advice in his memorable "front porch" campaign of 1920. When Harding was elected he rewarded his friend by appointing him attorney general in his cabinet in March, 1921. He served through the short Harding administration and for a time after Calvin Coolidge took office. He resigned on March 28, 1924, after a disagreement with Coolidge.

Daugherty never revealed the nature of their dispute but insisted that they remained friends until Coolidge's death.

"Mr. Coolidge shoved a lot of work on me, but he never gave me a suggestion in my department until the last day I was in his cabinet. I got along with him. I knew him better than anybody else. He knew what part I had taken in selecting him for vice president and he felt under obligation to me."

Other presidents with whom Daugherty claimed intimate acquaintance were Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft and William McKinley.

In 1912, while he was chairman of the Republican state executive committee, he managed the presidential campaign of William Howard Taft in Ohio. He was at odds with Roosevelt followers when he forced members of the Progressive party off state, district and local committees. He took the position that a candidate could not run on two tickets and the Ohio supreme court later upheld him.

Although his name suffered from the scandals of the Harding administration, Daugherty declared he had nothing to do with them.

"When the teapot dome business was going on," he said, "it didn't mean anything to me. I had never heard of teapot dome until then."

Charges of misusing the powers of office in allegedly obtaining the pardon from prison of an Eastern capitalist were brought against him while he was attorney general. The house judiciary committee cleared him of the charges.

He was indicted along with two others by a federal grand jury in 1926 on the charge of conspiring to defraud the government by authorizing the return to German and Swiss owners of $7,000,000 of stock and assets of the American Metals company, which had been seized as alien property during the World war. Again he was cleared of the charges when the indictment against him was quashed.

He wrote a book, "The Inside Story of the Harding Tragedy," which defended that administration. In his last years he spent much time collecting notes for another book on the same subject but it never was published.

He was born at Washington Court House on Jan. 26, 1860, the son of John H. Daugherty, a merchant tailor. His father died when he was four years old. His mother died 10 years ago.

He got a degree from the University of Michigan. As a college student, he became interested in politics and made enough money on election bets "to put me through college on a dress suit basis."

He was admitted to the bar and began law practice in his home town at the age of 21. Later he moved his law offices to Columbus. Before he left home, he was elected a township clerk and councilman-at-large. He was defeated for the nomination for congress in 1888 by three votes. He was elected chairman of the Republican state central committee that year.

He was elected to the legislature in 1889 and was re-elected in 1891. In 1893 he was temporary chairman of the state convention that nominated William McKinley for Ohio governor and later was made permanent chairman.

He was defeated by 77 votes for Ohio governor by George K. Nash in 1893. In 1916 he ran for U. S. senator and lost to Myron T. Herrick.

He married Lucy M. Walker Sept. 3, 1884. She died in 1924 and a son, Capt. Draper M. Daugherty, died in 1930.

He liked to play poker and fish. He was wealthy and lived expensively in his last years. He suffered from shingles in his declining years.

He was proud to be called a member of the "Ohio gang" of politicians.

"That so-called Ohio gang has nominated and elected eight presidents of the United States," he once said. "It has fathered and helped to enact most of the fundamentally important legislation that has passed congress since the Civil war. The Ohio gang has been one of the driving forces in our national life for half a century."

His body lay at a funeral home (Schoedinger) today. The funeral service will be conducted at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday by the Rev. James Thomas, Columbus Methodist minister. He will be buried in the family mausoleum at Washington Court House.

CHAPTER XXV

"Nothing really insulting happened," she told herself for perhaps the hundredth time. "If the dance hall had a forward hussy there, it wasn't Dal's fault. I don't care how she happened to know him! It's just my own precious, stupid dignity that got hurt! I'm not as modern as I thought, I'm ruled by tradition as much as mother is."

* * *

The self lecture ended when she turned off the pavement out in the oil field and pulled up at a tent beside a 10-year-old car. She went in the tent and talked briefly to a woman and came out with a bundled up baby. She spoke tenderly to the baby and set it in her car, then drove carefully back to town. She had to double park in front of the bank building, but she didn't care. This was Dal Tower's office period, 10 to 12, and she didn't want to miss him. She carried her bundle up the stairs and into the reception room.

Four or five patients waiting there stared at her. She ignored them and in a moment the office nurse ushered Lillian and her charge right into Dal's private office.

"This is the Voss family's baby I was telling you about, Dal. The mother's better. The father has work today."

Dal got busy undressing the child, examining, weighing, studying it carefully. He turned then to a writing pad.

"Here's a prescription. Tell Bubba to put it on my account. See that the baby has the drops in its ears every two hours, and take it a dozen cans of condensed milk. I'll buy the milk, too, Lillian. I want to. You've been paying for all the others. Judas, miss, this is the fourteenth child you've brought up here!"

"There may be more, Dal. Dozens of poor families have come to the oil field. They're so grateful! They—"

"I know. Keep bringing them. If it's emergency, phone me and I'll come out. You're tops, Miss Mayfield."

"You're tops, too, Dr. Tower."

"Well!" he suddenly grinned in his old infectious manner. "We managed that exchange pretty nice! You're tops, I'm tops. A body would think we liked each other!"

"Oh, Dal!" She smiled, but there was a quick hurt in her eyes, a sadness, a restraint. He couldn't miss seeing it.

"'Scuse it. I don't understand it, but I know a red light when I see one. Once I imagined I—"

He was interrupted by a bell clang then a siren. The town's only fire station, housing its one red truck, stood next to the bank building. The truck was suddenly roaring off with all its usual fanfare, and more or less automatically Dal and Lillian moved to a window.

Dal saw it instantly. Suddenly tense, he pointed out North Marshall street. Not fire, nor smoke, but a motion high above the trees.

"It's happened!" he breathed. "There it is! You rush on out. I'll take the baby home."

Martin Deale reasoned that he would have to do everything possible to make up for shooting Dorothy Mayfield. He was contrite from the moment he pulled the trigger that day. He went through a sort of hell right there, and a more tangible form of punishment loomed for him when the routine of the law got going.

Incapable of saying what he wanted to say in person, he wrote Baby Doll a letter of abject apology.

"It's the sort of thing Martin would do," Lillian had said, dismissing that incident. "He'll probably do it in poetry some day, sis."

"Do yo uthink he will?" The idea appealed to the younger sister.

His apology, and Baby Doll's somewhat embarrassing avowal of love for Martin when she thought herself dying, and the fact that Martin had been "defending the Mayfield principles" in the first place, all served to retain his status as a friend of the family despite the fact of the shooting. He hadn't shot at Baby Doll; she had thrown herself in the way of the bullet, they remembered.

In his lingering distress over the incident Martin ordered old Dr. Watkins to call on Baby Doll every day, and personally went to him each afternoon to pay for the call.

"It won't be necessary for me to go out again, son," the old physician said, after the first week. "She can come in about 10 days hence for a final check over, but—"

"Dr. Watkins, I insist that you do go, sir. Please do. I—here, I'll pay you in advance. Double if necessary. If there is the slightest thing to be done—"

He had to humor the boy twice more, but on the third day he good-naturedly made Martin come out with him. On the drive out he "fathered" the young man a little.

"Son, you are just upset about Miss Baby Doll's, uh, avowal of love for you. I know. It would get under any man's skin, the way things went. But don't you pay any attention to that. She's just a child, still. Her talk that first half hour or so was unreal due to shock. I doubt if she even remembers it. Nobody else mentioned it, have they?"

* * *

"Uhn huhm. Don't pay any attention to it, then."

Baby Doll was up playing the phonograph when Jason let the doctor and Martin in, but she ran dutifully to her invalid couch. Martin came into her presence wearing an expression he might have shown at a funeral parlor.

"I want to convince Martin that you are now all right, Missy," Dr. Watkins said. "And how are you, Mrs. Mayfield?"

Mrs. Mayfield didn't feel well and said so. Moreover, her face showed the strain. Dr. Watkins gave her considerable advice, all good and all destined to go unheeded.

"Never except that first year, have I missed Dan so much as here lately, Dr. Watkins," she confessed now. "Dan always had sole charge of our business, you know. It isn't easy for me to—the oil, and all."

The doctor nodded. "You have been very brave, Millie," said he, gently. "No widow ever has an easy life unless she just wills it. You must continue to be strong, my dear."

"That's what I tells her, Dr. Watkins, suh." Jason Weems put that in. He had been hovering within earshot. "Miss Millie don't need to worry herself none whatevuh. I promise Mr. Dan my own self."

"Yes, Jason. You take care of her. Miss Millie is naturally upset about that oil derrick on her lawn. You must—"

"Yas suh, I been noticin' she is, all right. Cain't blame her none, neither."

"You are all so kind," the lady thanked them. "You are very dear friends. But I certainly will be glad when a man can step in to handle our affairs again."

She said that carelessly, but significantly. Martin Deale looked quickly at her face, but she was staring off.

"You have two pretty daughters, Millie," the old doctor said, fondly. "Won't be surprising if either or both of them get married any time, let me tell you! No siree!"

No more was said about it, but the little seed of conversation took quick root in Martin Deale's mind. All at once he saw Mrs. Mayfield's statement as his personal cue. A man to step in and handle her family affairs again! For a long time, too long, he had been courting Lillian!

He resolved to propose marriage to her at once.

* * *

It was that same morning, but an hour later, that the Mayfield oil well blew the top. With no warning even to the mechanics and engineers doing the drilling—

WHOOSH!

It came as an instantaneous muffled outburst. A veritable eruption.

Somewhere down in the earth's bowels the drill bit had broken through a layer of rock. Great pressures were released. Oil, crude black oil, spurted up the boring pipe and out with such force that it drove instantly against the top of the derrick, spread around the steel work on up 50 feet or more higher.

Then it settled into a steady hrr-r-r-r-ring roar at the well proper, abetted by a constant splatter on the lawn and out on North Marshall street's narrow pavement and sidewalk. Sheerest good luck directed the force of the geyser-like eruption away from the Mayfield residence and the nearby Haltom residence instead of toward them.

"WHOOOO!" It was old Jason Weems, outside at the time, who saw the gusher and first yelled the alarm. It was he who had presence of mind enough to hobble rapidly in and telephone the fire station.
